dvice of a laws

his concern our n members of a ext door to be

. The videorage

yelling at Kie

the lawn with a ounching him is sprays the your es him. 201 de

takes off his sim

Kiley again with and been abducted and been and divided and divided and divided and sagged to the where he put her and and had a said on 50,000 doing and on 50,000 doing and allegedly fonded the allegedly fonded the allegedly fonded the worman forced arced the woman hant I will obey investigator , h Cathey allowed is leave the closel sleep and occasion her to jog and the police said. He will rocery store. a per rocery store, a process store, and a home supplies and a home supplies and Each time of a said. Each time of the when she is her, when suffered guide her, particle went to a supplies ant, Cathey explains ant, Cathey explains and by saying that a problem west.

Bush gets 'positive' Soviet letter

GRAND JUNCTION, Colorado (AP) - President George Bush said Monday he reveived a "very important" letter from Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev last weekend indicating the Soviets were determined to reach agreement on an arms control treaty. "We view it as a positive response," Mr. Bush said of Mr. Gorbachev's letter dealing with spower negotiations now under way to reach agreement on the START treaty to reduce nuclear weapons. Secretary of State James Baker is meeting with Soviet Foreign Minister Alexander Besomettnykh in Berlin later this week to try to resolve differences on the treaty. "Obviously, when you are dealing with these details on start you're dealing with highly technical issues." Mr. Bush told reporters as he prepared to fly from Los Angeles To Grand Junction, Colorado, Monday morning. "It's hard to categorise letters of this nature, but the tone was good. The determination to reach agreement was positive and we're looking very closely at the details." Mr. Bush said the START talks were down to "some very fine points of arms control."

An independent Arab political daily published by the Jordan Press Foundation جوردان تايمز يومية سيأسيُّةٍ تصدّر بالانجليزية عن المؤسسة الصحفية الاردنية ،الراي،

Price: Jordan 100 fils; Saudi Arabia 1.50 riyals; UAE 1.50 dirhams

'Egypt, Syria ready for Gulf security'

BAHRAIN (AP) - Egypt and Syria are at the disposal of the Gulf

Cooperation Council (GCC) member states when they decide on the final shape of regional security arrangements, an Egyptian official said Monday The Gulf News Agency, reporting on a meeting of Damascus declaration signatories in Oatar, and Ambassador Mohammad Abul Nasr

"affirmed this country's readiness and that of the Arab Republic of Syria to cooperate in what may be required of them." Syria's delegate, Moneib

Al Rifai, expressed hope of positive results "in laying a new edifice on the Arab Nation's march towards liberation, progress and achieving stability and security for the region." the agency said. Mr. Abul Nasr and Mr. Rifai were addressing a panel of experts, mainly at the level of undersecretanes of foreign affairs, meeting for the first time since Egyptian President

Hosni Mubarak recalled his forces from Kuwait and Saudi Arabia in early May. Mr. Mubarak's move, and a subsequent withdrawal by Syria, cast

Volume 16 Number 4729

AMMAN TUESDAY, JUNE 18, 1991, THU AL HIGEH 6, 1411

Crown Prince visits General Command

AMMAN (Petra) - His Royal Highness Crown Prince Hassan Monday visited the Armed Forces General Command and met with Chief of Staff General Fathi Abu Taleb and his assistants. Prince Hassan and Gen. Abu Taleb discussed issues of interest to the Armed Forces. The Crown Prince also visited the Royal Geographic Centre where he was briefed by its director on its projects and role in the development process in the King-

University in Zarga approved

AMMAN (Petra) - The Higher Education Council held a meeting Monday under the chair-manship of Minister of Higher Education Saeed Al Tal and approved establishing a national University in Zarqa Governorate. It also approved the appointment of a University of Jordan vice-president for scientific affairs as chairman of the unified office entrusted with admitting students to Jordanian universities. The council also approved forming a committee whose task will be equivalence of certificates.

Flerce fighting in north Sri Lanka

COLOMBO (AP) - Fierce battles raged Monday between government troops and Tiger rebels in the north for the fourth consecutive day, the military said. Troops moving northward in an attempt to beat back the guerrillas came under heavy rebel fire, military officials said. The fighting occurred near the village of Paraiyanalankulam, 32 kilometres west of the northern were countering rebel fire while consolidating their positions,' said a military official at command headquarters in Colombo. Officials said there were no immediate reports of any casualties but soldiers on Sunday found six bodies of Tiger rebels killed in combat last week.

Shots fired at Carter site

MIAMI (AP) - Shots were fired Monday at a construction site where former President Jimmy Carter was working with other volunteers, police said. One volunteer was grazed in the head. Mr. Carter, about a block away from the shooting site, was not hurt. He later spoke to reporters and dismissed the incident. "When a former president or somebody famous comes to a place, they try to cause a little disturbance," said Mr. Carter. Mr. Carter and his wife, Rosalynn, are working with Habitat for Humanity, which is building 14 homes and a day care centre in the Liberry City neighbourhood. Habitat has built 10.000 homes for low-income families since 1976. A witness said three or four shots were fired from a car that sped off down a street near a volunteer tent. "It was definitely aimed at us, no doubt about it," said Anita Biorok, a volunteer and witness to the shooting in the Liberty City neighbourhood.

Mother Teresa to open refuge for children in Baghdad

BAGHDAD (R) - Mother Teresa, the Roman Catholic nun who has devoted her life to helping the poor, is to open a refuge for sick children in Baghdad, a spokesman said Monday. The refuge, an old orphanage sandwiched between a Catholic church and a mosque, was a gift of the Iraqi government and would be staffed by six nuns from Mother Teresa's order, Father Kevin Doheny told Reuters. "Initially it will cater for about 50 children," said Father Doheny, an Irish missionary friend of the Yugoslav-born nun. Mother Teresa, who won the Nobel Peace Prize for her work among the poor of the Indian city of Calcutta, arrived in Baghdad last Tuesday, "Her aim is to do what she always does. She begins with the children, those who are malnourished or handicapped, either mentally or physically." Father Doheny said.

Prime Minister Badran resigns, Masri asked to form new cabinet

By Nermeen Murad Jordan Times Staff Reporer

AMMAN — His Majesty King Hussein has accepted the resignation of Prime Minister Mudar Badran's government and asked Foreign Minister Taher Masri to form a new cabinet, highly informed sources said Monday.

The sources did not say when the new cabinet will be formed or who its members will be, but analysts and observers predict that the prime minister-designate would have some work to do before he submits a final list of ministers for approval by the King and later on to the Lower House of Parliament.

Mr. Badran's cabinet is a loose coalition of independents, leftists, technocrats and the Muslim Brotherhood movement, which is the single biggest group in Parlia-

It was not clear yesterday whether Mr. Masri's cabinet would be formed along the same lines of coaliltion but the observers said this depended on a number of factors, not least of

lran says

better ties

year war with Iraq, were interrupted by the recent Gulf war.

Nations Resolution 598, which halted the Iran-Iraq war, must be viewed "comprehensively," He

Baghdad restored relations

Iraq's strategy was to woo Iran at a time of rising tension with the U.S.-led coalition which later

But tensions flared when Iraq

NEW DELHI (Agencies) — The

Congress Party appeared poised to recapture power as counting

continued Monday in parliamentary elections marked by extreme violence and the assassination of former Prime Minister Rajiv

But the party, which led India to freedom and democracy a half-century ago, will not take enough seats to control parliament outright, according to results broad-

Congress Party leaders confidently declared they would form the next government but admitted they would have to seek a coalition or "some working arrangement" with other parties.

met at the New Delhi home of acting party President P.V. Narasimha Rao, sure that theirs was the only party able to put a government together despite fall-

Six senior Congress leaders cast by state television.

forced Iraq to leave Kuwait.

with Iran soon after Iraq invaded did not elaborate.

Kuwait in August.

Mr. Habibi said that United

it wants

NICUSIA (AP) -

ported.

ences."

parliamentary groups to join or support the new government. With memories of Mr. Badran's three-day struggle through the confidence vote of the Lower House in December 1989 still fresh in the minds of political observers and analysts, their immediate reaction to Mr. Masn's appiontment is one of examining the political equation which would guarantee Mr. Masri the confidence vote of at least 41 members of the 80-man House.

A major preoccupation for the prime minister-designate should be whether the Muslim Brotherhood movement would choose to join the new government or to refrain from repeating their experience with Mr. Badran, where they narrowly decided to participate in his cabinet with five seats last January.

Analysts point to several factors that could influence the turn of events in this direction most important of which is Mr. Masri's stance towards a peaceful settlement of the Palestine problem that matter another small number of ultra-nationalist deputies de-

Another determining factor would be the movement's own assessments of their six months of participation in Mr. Badran's government. Analysts close to the movement point to a division among the ranks of Brotherhood members over the feasability of what they call the "policy of containment' exercised by Mr. Badran.

"Among themselves they are asking whether their short experience in government has reaped them enough benefits to warrant a continuity of such a policy." a source pointed out. However, this same point is being discussed by the more secular groups in Parliament who feel that they were alienated by Mr. Budran's decision to take in five Brotherhood ministers in his cabinet at the expense of their support for more liberal policies.

While some analysts believe that Mr. Masri would try to form joys good relations with most hood, others say that Mr. Masri cannot ignore the strength of the movement in the Parliament and among the populace at large.

Informed sources told the Jordan Times that Mr. Masri has arranged for a meeting with representatives of the movement this morning with another scheduled meeting with the leftist democratic bloc (seven members) later in the afternoon.

The sources add that the Brotherhood may have decided already against joining Mr. Masri's cabinet although they are not likely to answer him with a flat

The likely scenario, said one source, is that Brotherhood leaders will demand from Mr. Masri a pledge against negotiations with Israel in addition to their 14-point list of conditions which they wanted Mr. Badran to abide by one-and-a-half years ago.

However, the sources expect Mr. Masri, who is a member of the Lower House, and who en-

Mudar Badran

House members to hedge his bets on the Brotherhood joining the government by looking for a majority without the movement's formal support. The strongly pro-establishment nationalists and independent liberals as well as independent Islamists combined would provide the premier-designate with the edge he needs to secure his post but only if they were able to unite their position in support of Mr. Masri, the analysts and observers said.

They expect that the foreign minister, a member of the 15member National Bloc in the House, would be able to ensure a narrow margin of around 45 votes

King receives Soviet

message AMMAN (J.T.) — His Majesty King Hussein Monday received a message from Soviet President

the ongoing efforts to convene a Middle East peace conference. Soviet Ambassador to Jordan Yuri Griadonov delivered the message to the king, the Jordan News Agency, Petra, said. It did not give further details. The message was the first direct contact between Amman and Moscow in the wake of last month's tour of the Middle East by Soviet Foreign Minister Alexander Bessmertnykh, who was quoted as saving that the time was right to push Middle East peace talks.

Mikhail Gorbachev dealing with

Mr. Bessmertnykh, who visited Saudi Arabia, Syria, Jordan. Egypt and Israel discussed prospects for a Middle East peace conference and Soviet contribution to the peace process. The Soviet minister was quoted as saying in Cairo that there was a good chance to start the peace

Likud and its predecessor

"Likud has no aspirations

The change was welcomed by

However, the new draft maintains Israel's "right to sovereign-the Labour Party, Likud's main opposition in parliament.

beyond the Jordan River," Mr.

(Continued on page 5)

Likud drops 'Jewish rights' to both banks

TEL AVIV (R) — Israel's ruling said. Likud party plans to renounce an old "claim" to land on both sides Herut traditionally claimed "Jewof the Jordan River, saying it ish rights" to the "Biblical land of wants to show Amman it is se- Israel." rious about peace, a Likud spokesman said Monday.

Jordan, we want a peace agreement. We don't want to threaten (Jordan). We want to advance peace." The spokesman, Gil Samsonov, told Reuters.

"We don't want a conflict with arrange peace talks between Israel and its Arab neighbours, including Jordan.

In a new draft of its constitution. Lidud has dropped a refer-

The United States is trying to ty" over the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip.

ence to "Jewish rights" to both

According to Mr. Samsonov there is no contradiction in Likud

Baker has made four trips to the Middle East since the war ended

but has been unable to Persuade

Israel, Arab states and Palestinians to hold direct negotiations.

can promote peace, but only the supporting Palestinian self-rule in the occupied territories and Israeli "sovereignty" over the banks of the river, Mr. Samsonov

Bush: Peace talks 'no longer distant dream'

LOS ANGELES (R) — U.S. President George Bush has told American Jews that his Middle East peace effort will bear fruit only if Israel and Arab states 'muster the political will." needed for a settlement.

At a fund raising dinner for the Simon Wiesenthal Centre, Bush commented briefly on the peace initiative he began three months ago hoping to take advantage of a feeling of good will after the Gulf war to search for a broad settlement in the Middle East.

guarantee security for Israel. We've learned that military power alone cannot guarantee her security. Israel and her neighbours will enjoy true and lasting security only when they achieve genuine reconciliation," he said. U.S. Secretary of State James

Mr. Bush said that because of Mr. Baker's efforts, "direct negotiations between Israel and her neighbours no longer seem a distant dream. "The process we have designed parties in the region muster the political will to make it happen, if "We've learned the hard lesson that geography alone cannot they do, the issues that divide them will fall away and the Middle East at last can begin the journey towards lasting peace. Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir contended Sunday that Arab states were blocking peace efforts by refusing to acknowledge Israel's existence.

include leaders of an Islamic fun-ANKARA (Agencies) — President Turgut Ozal Monday appointed Mesut Yilmaz, the new chairman of the governing Motherland Party, to become premier and form Turkey's next government.

ign minister, forced Yildirim Akbulut to resign as premier by defeating him at a party vote Saturday. The change in party leadership was seen as an attempt ing fortunes.

1983 with a reform programme but has steadily lost popularity because of recurring corruption scandals and high inflation, now running at around 70 per cent.

Mr. Yilmaz said it could take as long as a week to draw a cabinet list and submit the names to Mr. Ozal for approval. Mr. Yilmaz. who heads the party's Western-damentalist faction as well as some secular politicians who had backed Mr. Akbulut. Mr. Ozal, one of the founders of the Motherland Party, declared himself neutral in the leadership race. But the Turkish press said he and his influential wife, Semra, quietly backed Mr. Yil-

The presidency is officially a largely ceremonial post that is above party politics. But critics charge Mr. Ozal has been running both the party and the govemment.

Mr. Yilmaz, 44, is the first Turkish politician to become prime minister as a result of the political party. He will probably lead the party into general elections due in 1992. In an election victory Saturday, Mr. Yilmaz called the party leadership change "a last chance" for oriented wing, said he would the party.

Kuwaiti trials, death sentences spark outcry, tough warning Jordanian woman condemned to death are fully respected in line with international norms and pracwith agency dispatches "We found out that he was held for

with Iraq

— Iran's Vice-AMMAN — Against the dack drop of a Jordanian appeal for President Hassan Habibi said Monday that Tehran and Baghworld intervention to save the dad must solve outstanding diflives of Jordanians and Palestiferences and establish a peaceful relationship, Tehran Radio re-The broadcast quoted Mr. Habibi as saying that "Iran and

Iraq, which are neighbouring countries, must solve their differand lawyers and Palestinian activ-Speaking at a press conference in Tehran, he said peace talks with Iraq, started after the August 1988 ceasefire in the eightnians facing execution in Kuwait. another 55-year-old Jordanian woman was Monday sentenced to death, bringing the total number of those condemned to death to Leading Jordanian politicians

ists Monday joined widespread calls on Kuwait to end its summary trials and ensure that the conduct of justice is fair and just and the rights of the "accused"

The death sentences were passed cused in the Iragi-run newspaper at Nidaa, the only newspaper allowed to operate during the eight-month fraqi occupation. Several others were sentenced to 10-year imprisonment, ac-Anxious family members of those condemned to death started a massive appeal campaign in Jordan Monday and block the death sentences A cousin of one of the journalists sentenced to death told the Jordan Times that the trial of his cousin.

Ahmad Abed Mustafa, was grossly the hands of Kuwaiti authoritis," he added. by the court for the work of the As a result of the beatings, Mr. Hussein said, his cousin suffered internal bleeding of the liver. "We seek to put an end to these repressive arbitrary trials," said Hussein Al Husseini, the brother of Abdul Rahman Al Husseini who also faces death in Kuwait. The 38-year-old journalist was described by his older brother as a gentleman and a warm father of two little girls aged three and one. The trials are in absolute violations of basic human rights," Mr.

(Continued on page 5)

Britain balks at setting final date for withdrawal from Iraq

LUXEMBOURG (Agencies) -Britain is unwilling to set a date for final withdrawal of allied forces from Iraqi Kurdistan until Kurds "feel" adequately protected from Baghdad, senior British officials said Monday.

cracked down on simultaneous Foreign Secretary Douglas Kurdish and Shiite Muslim rebel-Hurd, in Luxembourg for a regulions launched in the wake of the lar meeting of EC foreign minis-Gulf war, and Iran refused to ters, planned consultations with return tens of Iraqi warplanes his French and Dutch counterthat took refuge in Iran to escape parts on the situation. allied bombing. Iraq accused Iran France and the Netherlands of instigating the unrest. have both sent troops to a "secur-Relations were further strained ity zone" in northern Iraq to last week when Tehran accused attract Kurdish refugees back to Iraq of intending to massacre their homes. 500,000 to one million Shiftes The officials said an important Iran said were massed in marshelement in making Kurds "feel lands in southern Iraq. secure" would be assurances ab-(Continued on page 5) out what action the United Nations would take if "things went wrong" after coalition forces, including the Americans, with-

Other elements were a satisfactory outcome to negotiations, reported to be on the verge of agreement, between Kurdish leaders and the Iraqi government and resolving problems which have stopped most of the promised U.N. security guards taking up position in Kurdistan.

'It is very important that a final withdrawal date be geared into a feeling by the Kurds of adequate protection. We are not yet at a stage where we can sensibly fix a final date." senior official said.

(Continued on page 5)

EC wants more action

LUXEMBOURG (R)

The European Community (EC) said on Monday thatnegotiations between Iraqi Kurds and the Iraqi government were at a dead end and more aid was frequently needed to protect refugees who had returned to their homes. After a meeting of EC foreign ministers, Luxembourg's Jacques Poos said he would be contacting U.N. Secretary General Javier Perez de Cuellar and the U.S. government to see what new help could be given.

Congress poised to take power in India dra Shekhar. minister, told Reuters that "We are definitely going to spokeswoman Margaret Alva. But it has become obvious we have to work something out with other parties." With final results incomplete, it was not clear how far short of a majority Congress would fall af-

form the government," said party

ter an election which began on May 20 but was tragically interrupted by Mr. Gandhi's assassination the following day. State run television projections said it would be the biggest party in parliament but about 30 seats short of a majority after counting ended for the 511 seats at stake in the poll, which ended on Satur-

The number required to bridge the gap could dictate who Congress woos for a majority. Mr. Rao, current favourite for the leadership and likely prime Monday night's meeting would start deciding on an agenda for taking power and how Congress would choose a new leader. "Nothing else can be said at the moment," he added. With 325 of the 511 parliament seats declared, the Congress Party had won 173, the Bharatiya Janata 73 and the Janata Dal 24, television reported. The rest went to smaller parties, including 12 to regional parties allied with the Congress. A party needs 256 seats to form government

Election analyst Prannoy Roy said the results coupled with trends in undeclared races indicated the Congress party would end up with 210 to 220 seats. With nearly two-thirds of the races declared, there were only two seats for the splinter party of lame-duck Prime Minister Chan-

Chandra Shekhar, leader of the Socialist Janata Dal, went to see President Ramaswamy Venkataraman and asked to be relieved of the premiership as soon as possible, reports said.

The request is a formality which must be made in order for a new government to form. Mr. Gandhi was reelected posthumously to parliament. His rural constituency of Amethi in the north Indian heartland had voted one day before his assassination. Under election rules, the ballots had to be counted. His victory means a by-election will be held

The election was the deadliest in India's history, with more than 290 people killed in campaign violence. Two more people were killed on Sunday in Baroda, a city in Guiarat state.

thrown at Israeli facility two months, and brutally tortured at

Grenade

OCCUPIED JERUSALEM (Agencies) - A hand grenade was thrown Monday into a vard housing an Israeli army-run employment office in the occupied territories, injuring an Israeli soldier military officials said.

Soldiers searching the area in the West Bank's largest city of Nablus also found a homemade explosive planted nearby and safely dismantled it, they said.

A curfew was promptly clamped on Nablus and surrounding refugee camps, confining about 120,000 Palestinians indoors.

Settlement plan

An Israeli housing ministry official Monday disputed an Israeli peace group's statement that the government plans to build nearly 30,000 more housing units in the occupied territories. Ministry spokesman Shaya

Segal accused the group Peace

Now of "over exaggerating" and said he knew of no plans beyond the announced ones to add 13,000 units to Jewish settlements in the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip. The question of enlarging Jewish settlements is touchy since the United States has asked assurances that Israel is not moving

Soviet immigrants in the occupied territories as a condition for aid to help absorb the thousands of new immigrants. Mr. Segal's comments came in response to a weekend statement by Peace Now. It said about 16,100 apartments were to be built in some 16 settlements near the West Bank city of Hebron and 13,550 in 15 areas in Gaza

according to documents available

The peace group, best known for organising mass demonstrations against Israel's 1982 invasion of Lebanon, said five new settlements also were planned. After Mr. Segal's statement, defended the group's accusation. saying "these documents do not look to me like they are being fabricated." The Peace Now statement included a list of all the settlements involved and the amount of acreage and number of housing

Peace Now leader Tzali Reshef

units to be added to each. in March, two legislators, Charlie Biton and Eli Ben-Menachem, said that the government planned to add 24,300 new units to settlements. The housing ministry said then that those numbers were unfounded.

Yilmaz named premier

Mr. Yilmaz, 44, a former fore-to reverse the Motherland's sink-The party swept to power in

Kuwaitis keep vast arsenal

glance, the mound of weapons in the back office of the Sabah Al Salem police station seem to show that Kuwaiti officials are succeeding in their attempt to take weapons out of civilian

Rocket-propelled grenades and 50-calibre machine gun rounds spill out of two filing cabinets and the weapons on the floor include an anti-aircrast gun barrels, several grenade-launchers, and Soviet- Chinese- and U.S.made automatic weapons.

But closer inspection shows the bulk of weapons are slightly rusted hunting guns. Kuwait, once a largely non-violent society, has been transformed by the Iragi occupation into a country where guns are zealously held.

A government programme to collect all the weapons in civilian hands by Tuesday may fall short of its goal by 50 per cent, police officers say. Others put the return rate even lower, at about 20 per

Western diplomats worry that Kuwait could become another Lebanon, given the large number of weapons in private hands, the suspicion among ethnic and religious communities and frustration over slow rebuilding. But the prospect of house-to-house searches to take away guns is no more

Kuwaitis say they are keeping their weapons as insurance in case their government leaves them unprotected again - the cabinet and all senior army officers fled from Iraq's Aug. 2 inva-

"It's a small amount (returned). People are afraid of the future, maybe (Iraqis) will come back again," said Ahmad Mohammad, who catalogues all the weapons coming into the sta-

The hunting weapons eventually will be relicensed. But the military guns. which came from abandoned Iraqi stocks and broken-into Kuwaiti storerooms, are being confiscated.

We don't know how many weapons are in Kuwait. It depends on the honesty of the people," said Colonel Abdul Latif Al Issa, the police officer in charge of the weapons collection prog-

About 15 people have showed up towing anti-aircraft weapons the Iraqis left in their back gardens and Col. Issa believes others are keeping them as "souvenirs."

Many believe the Iraqi occupation lowered the threshold of violence in the society and that Kuwaitis will turn to guns much more readily. They worry that Palestinians, frustrated by unemployment and abused by the security services, might take up arms. Police said only one per cent of returned weapons has come from non-Kuwaitis.

Younger members of the ruling Al Sabah family and resistance cells are also unlikely to disarm. And Shi'ite Muslims, who want years of discrimination ended in return for their loyalty during the invasion, are believed heavily armed.

Col. Issa said searching houses to take away weapons is one option being considered before the deadline expires.
For many diplomats the image of the Kuwaiti army conducting house-to-house searches is a human-rights nightmare coming on top of widespread condemnation for torture of detainees and summary trials of alleged Iraqi

"It's an area they can blunder into with enormously negative consequences. I can't come up with an example of any society that has been able to go into homes and sweep for arms with any success," said a Western ambassador.

U.S. to veto UN moves if Israel accepts deal

Compromise proposed for peace parley

The Jerusalem Post

THE U.S. will veto any anti-Israel U.N. Security Council resolutions on the peace process, if it accepts a U.S.-brokered compromise to break the procedural deadlock blocking the convening of a Middle East peace conference, Secretary of State James Baker told Foreign Minister David Levy last Thursday in Washington, officials close to

"Baker said he could assure us no such resolutions will pass throughout the peace process," one official close to Levy said in recounting the meeting the two held at the State Department. These officials say Baker declared the U.S. would thwart any Security Council move on the peace process. They also say Baker cautioned that one should not underestimate the desire of the Soviets and the Europeans to maintain their status within the conference rather than abdicate their power to the U.N. Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir wrote President George Bush earlier this month that the presence of a silent U.N. observer at the talks could essentially be a point of pressure against Israel should direct negotiations become stalemated. Specifically,

Shamir wrote Bush that the reports of the observer could be submitted to U.N. bodies, tempting the Security Council to intervene in breaking a logjam, thus making Israel politically vulner-

Therefore, a U.S. pledge by Baker to Levy that would torpe-do any hostile Security Council resolution on the peace process could ease Israeli fears about including such a U.N. observer.

Meanwhile, Baker remains intent on seeking to negotiate with all sides, in a bid to bridge the gap between the parties. Israeli officials say Baker has opposed efforts by White House National Security Adviser Brent Scowcroft to issue invitations to the foreign ministers of the region to a preliminary parley to resolve procedural differences - and see who turns up.

Baker has so far rejected such advice as being too risky, and Shamir pointedly appealed to Bush in his letter to refrain from issuing any invitations until all outstanding issues are resolved. Levy emerged from his meeting with Baker with the understanding that Israel "will not be surprised" by any American diplomatic moves.

At Sunday's cabinet session.

Habash says U.S. plan offers no hope leader George Habash says the United States does not want to see the creation of a Palestinian state and that Washington's Middle East peace initiative offers Palestinians no hope.

The Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine (PFLP) leader said in an interview late Sunday that the way forward for Palestinians was to press on with the intifada in the Israeli occupation territories.

"So far the American peace initiative, or what America calls peace initiative, says no to the Palestine Liberation Organisation (PLO) and says also no to self-determination and says also no to any Palestiman state," he told Reuters and the Visnews television agency.

"It offers no hope whatsover." Palestinians should "play the card of international legitimacy (through the intifada)," said Mr. Habash, who is normally based in Damascus.

Mr. Habash, the most senior Palestinian leader to visit Iraq since Gulf war ended in February, said the PLO was being unfairly singled out for its support for Baghdad during the conflict.

"The Western states want to make of this point something against the PLO and against the Palestinians," he said, adding that the PLO had won the support of the Arab masses.

the West but what is most important for us is to win the support of our masses ... of the Arab mas-

Mr. Habash said the intifada, now in its fourth year, remained the best way of bringing the plight of the Palestinians to the attention of the world.

"The intifada is the force that we have in hand to tell all the world that we want a solution for our cause based on international legitimacy," he said. Mr. Habash said international

tions resolutions gave the Palestinians the right to selfdetermination and their own "The American initiative legitimacy through United Na-

jumps all over these important points," he said.

"America destroyed Iraq under the banner of international legitimacy. If she wants really international legitimacy let America come and agree that the Palestinian issue should be solved on the basis of international legitimacy.

Mr. Habash said the PLO would work to mend fences with the Gulf states, once its main financial backers but alienated by Palestinian support for Iraq

But he said that Palestinians would in future have to depend more deeply on themselves. "We have to learn to depend on ourselves first and last.'

PLO wants to discuss Lebanon arms plan

MIDDLE EAST NEWS IN BRIEF

BAGHDAD (R) - Palestinians, while accepting the right of the Lebanese government to extend its authority throughout Lebanda. need their weapons to defend themselves, Palestinian harding George Habash said. Dr. Habash, speaking late on Sunday thing a visit to Baghdad, said the Palestine Liberation Organization a visit to bagnoso, sato me ratestine Liberation. Organisation. (PLO) was fully prepared to discuss all these assets with the government of Elias Hrawi. "We do not regard ourselves as a many militia," he told Reuters. "That is why we should not be treated at the militia." Dr. Habash, whose Popular Front for the Liberation of Polestine (PET D) is a major force in the Polestine. of Palestine (PFLP) is a major force in the Palestine refugee camp of southern Lebanon, said the PLO had repeatly expressed a desire to help the Lebanese government extent its authority in line with an Arab brokered plan to end 16 years of civil war. At the same time we have rights, some rights, for example the security of our camps, the security of our people living in the camps, he said. "We are saying to the Lebanese government let us sit together and discuss your rights and our rights." Asked if he was talking only about the right of self-defence or a right to use Lebanon as a springboard for Palestinian attacks on Israel, he replied: "We are prepared to discuss all these things. I do not want to talk about the results of these discussions (in advance)."

Shamir ordered Shin Bet chief probed

TEL AVIV (AP) -- Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir ordered the head of Israel's Shin Bet security service investigated for alleged professional misconduct and impropriety, a newspaper said Sanday. The probe against the security chief, whose name is kept secret in Israel, followed anonymous complaints from senior Shin Bet officials, the left-wing daily Davar reported. Davar note that the investigation was completed last month with no action taken: but any such probe about the highly secretive agency is nears in Israel. The newspaper did not explain what improprieties might have been involved. It said the investigator appointed by Mr. Shamir, reserve Major General Rafael Vardi, questioned the Shin Bet chief and found his explanations satisfactory. The paper quoted top Shamir aide Avi Pazner as saying he was under orders not to discuss the case. Asked by the Associated Press for comment, Mr. Pazner's office said that "we don't respond to all the publications regarding the Shin Bet," In March 1989, Mr. Shanir reportedly reprimanded the previous Shin Bet chief after senior agency officers got drunk in front of Arab waiters at a party thrown for the official's buthday. Newspaper reports at the time said Mr. Shamir, a security-minded former agent for Israel's Mossad spy agency, "reacted with amazement and shock" to the party, As prime minister, Mr. Shamir is directly responsible for the Shin Ber.

Greece delays trial of airline bombing

ATHENS (R) - The trial of Palestinian Mohammad Rashid accused of involvement in a mid-air bomb blast aboard a Pan American airliner, was postponed until October after a brief opening session on Monday. A three-judge court, meeting under some of the heaviest security seen in Athens in years, postponed the trial because Mr. Rashid's lawyer, Nikoo Konstandopoulos was busy with another major trial and because of a two week lawyers' strike. Mr. Rashid is accused of the 1982 bombing of a Pan Am plane over Hawaii which killed a Japanese and wounded 15 other passengers. He has been charged with helping organise the attack and being part of a team which planted the bomb. The brief hearing was held in a special room at Athens' top security Korydalloo prison under heavy police guard and with the witness stand surrounded by bullet proof shields.

More than 1,000 mines detonated off

PARIS (R) - The allies have detonated more than 1,000 mines in the waters off Kuwait and normal shipping traffic to the emirate will soon be reestablished, the French navy said Monday. A navy statement said mine clearing marine teams belonging to the nine member Western European Union (WEU) defence alliance had accounted for 869 of all the mines destroyed. Iraq has given the U.S.-led allies maps showing the location of 1,200 mines laid by its navy of Kuwait City and towards channels leading of the Shatt Al Arab waterway. A naval task force neluding six minehunters -France's Aigle and Orion, Belgium's Iris and Myosotis and the Netherlands' Harlingen and Haarlem — plus the Belgian support

Kuwait's Al Qabas resumes publication

KUWAIT (R) - One of Kuwait's leading newspapers returned to the streets. Monday for the first time since Iraq's invasion of Kuwait last August. Al Qabas became the second daily to publish in Kuwait since the Iraqis left in February. The other is Al Fajr Al Jadid (New Dawn), a new newspaper. Government censorship of the press, introduced in 1986, is still in force. The broadsheet Al Qabas featured interviews with the heads of the central bank and customs office in Monday's edition. During their seven-month occupation of the emirate, the Iraqis used Al Qabasis offices, press and some staff members to print Al Nidaa (The Call), a daily which ceased publication shortly before the Gulf war began on January 17. Six people who worked for Al Nidaa were sentenced to death on Saturday by one of the martial law courts set up by Kuwait to try hundreds of people suspected of collaborating with the Iraqi occupation forces.

France, Iran strike deal over debt

PARIS (R) - France and Iran will try to reach final agreement Tuesday on a financial dispute dating back to a billion dollar loan Paris obtained from the late Shah, the French Foreign Ministry said. Settlement could pave the way for a visit to France by Iranian President Ali Akbar Hashemi Rafsanjani. Spokesman Daniel Bernard told reporters on Monday that Iranian Deputy Foreign Minister Mahmoud Vaezi and a top French deplomat, Francois Scheer, would try to put the finishing touches to protracted talks over repayments and interest. They were due to meet at the foreign ministry in Paris. Mr. Vaezi's visit follows consultations by telephone at the weekend between Mr. Rafsanjani and French President Francois Mitterrand. France has paid back $600 million of the loan, one of the few remaining obstacles to a complete return to normal relations. Ties were severed completely between 1987 and 1988.

Jews of Yemen come under spotlight

that a recent visit by an American Jewish delegation was aimed at arranging the secret emigration of Yemen's small Jewish Community to Israel.

But the visit, widely publicised in neighbouring Arab countries put the spotlight on the Jews of Yemen in the wake of Operation Solomon, which transported 16,500 Ethiopian Jews to Israel.

Even if American Jews were trying to arrange such an operation, its chances of success would be slight because Yemen bans travel by Jews in the country, who number between 700 and 3.000.

-The operation to bring thousands of Ethiopian Jews. known as Falashas, to Israel was condemned by Yemen and the rest of the Arab World.

The Arabs reject the emigration of Jews to Israel, saying many will be settled on the occupied territories at the expense of a future Palestinian state.

Sources close to Foreign Minister Abdul Kanm Al Inyani insisted Sunday that the American

KHARTOUM (AP) — The government has approved a U.N.

plan to air drop relief supplies to tens of thousands of Sudanese refugees in war-torn south Sudan.

The refugees were forced to return home from neighbouring

Ethiopia after the ouster of former President Mengistu Haile

Mariam who was the main supporter of the rebel Sudan People's Liberation Army (SPLA)

fighting in south Sudan for auton-

James Ingram executive director of the United Nations' World

Food Programme, told a press conference Sunday that the airdrop will start as soon as security arrangements can be organised

"Agreement was readily reached to the United Nations mounting a relief operation to assist returnees in Nasir," Mr.

Ingram said. He was referring to the southern Sudanese town on the border with Ethiopia where "It has been decided to start an refugees have taken shelter...

omy since 1983.

with the SPLA.

Sanaa did not disucss such an emigration plan.

They said it was led by Haim Tawil, a member of the American Jewish Committee, and that the visit was devoted to signing an agreement with a local constructor to build a synagogue and bathroom for the community in north of the capital, has the largest concentration of Jews in collected money in New York for the purpose and also tried to arrange for two scholarships in New York. They said that another recent belongs to a committee that rejected Jewish emigration to Before the creation of the state the Queen of Sheda. Jewish delegation which came to Operation Magic Carpet took not think that any of the Jews ties.

Saada, a city 250 kilometres

The same sources said that Mr.

Haim, who is of Yemeni origin,

Jewish visitor from the United States was Yousef Baker, who of Israel, some 50,000 to 60,000 Jews lived in this ancient land of immediate airdrop operation from Lokichokio in Kenya," he

About 400,000 Sudanese men,

Sudan approves U.N. food airdrop plan some 40,000 to the fledgling Jewish state from the Red Sea country. Emigration stopped in 1960.

Those who continued to live here have been allowed to pursue their religious practices and Yemenis see them going about their lives hardly any differently from the millions of Yemenis.

the prime minister rebutted a remark reportedly made by Baker in a meeting with American Jewish leaders last week. According to participants at the meeting,

Baker had charged that "people

close to Prime Minister Shamir are less devoted to peace" than

Shamir, Levy, and Defense

The remark by Baker was taken as a veiled attack on Shamir's right-hand aide and director-general of his office.

Yossi Ben-Aharon, who reportedly derided a compromise reached in a one-on-one meeting between Shamir and Baker to peace talks during his last visit here. To a lesser degree, the remark was also seen to refer to cabinet secretary Elyakim Rubin-

According to the Shamir-Baker compromise, Israel would not have a veto on the members of the Palestinian delegation from the territories, so long as the delegates commit to live in peace with Israel and agree to the dual-track approach of simultaneous peace talks with Arab states and Palestinians. In Shamir's letter to

Bush, he backed up Ben-Aharon and said Israel must retain its veto of the members of the Palestinian delegation.

Minister Arens

Their women wear headscarves like the Yemeni women and they chew the traditional sedating green leaf qat like the Yemenis. They are distinguished by the skullcaps or by the braided forelocks that they wear. Many work as goldsmiths. But they are not allowed to travel because they would likely end up in Israel. A human rights group noted this in a report after a visit here last year, while American Jews such as the latest delegation occasionally show up to review their status. At one point, the so-called Sheba Operation was launched to help them emigrate to Israel, but it did not get off the ground. But beginning in the late 1940s, Saleh once said publicly: "I do the Muslim fundamentalist par-living here want to leave, because they are in their homeland among their people and in a state that treats them as equal with other citizens."

Western diplomats noted that with last year's merger of conservative North Yemen with the formerly Marxist-ruled South Yemen, the Jews have taken a higher profile. One of the multitude of political parties formed after the merer, the liberal Constitutional Party, invited Jews to join and said about 50 have already done so. One of the party papers carried a column signed by a Yemeni Jews, expressing views on the political system.

Yemeni Television recently screened a lively debate between two politicians, one conservative and the other liberal, on the involvement of Jews in political life. The conservative was hostile.

First to report an alleged imminent emigration of the Yemeni Jewish community to Israel and warn against it was the newspaper

Kuwait says security lies in Arab troops CAIRO (R) - Kuwait's crown

prince was quoted as saying in remarks published Monday that the Gulf region's security lay in the presence of Arab troops, not Western ones. "The hope (for security) lies, not in the presence of foreign troops, but in the agreement of the Guif Cooperation Council (GCC) with bear Egypt and Sister Syria," Sheikh Saad Al Abdullah Al Sabah told the Cairo daily Al Akhbar.

He was apparently responding to reports of differences between Egypt and Kuwait over future security arrangements in the Egypt last month withdrew the during the Gulf crisis. Syria started withdrawing its troops this month after Kuwait asked the United States to keep for the time being some of its troops which helped liberate the emirate from its Iraqi occupation forces.

An agreement signed in March by the foreign ministers of Egypt. Syria and the six GCC states -Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, the United Arab Emirates, Bahrain, Oman and Qatar - stipulated Cairo and Damascus would form the nucleus of an Arab peacekeeping force in the postwar Gulf.

"We are currently developing the Damascus declaration and executing all its points," Sheikh Saad said.

Experts from the GCC, Egypt and Syria were to meet in Doha, Qatar, Monday to discuss the accord and prepare for a foreign ministers' meeting in Kuwait next month.

"The foreign ministers of the GCC, Egypt and Syria will consult well with each other during the coming meeting in Kuwait, Sheikh Saad added.

Sheikh Saad asserted Iraq was plotting to invade Kuwait again. (Iraq's) ambitions do not stop at Kuwait but extend to include all GCC states." he said.

JORDAN TELEVISION Tel: 773111-19

PRO(	RAMME TWO
18:60	Les Ratons Laveurs
18:30	Sixieme Cauche
19:00	News in French
	Aujourd'hui en Jordanie
19:30	News in Hebrew
	News in Arabic
29:30	Perfect Strangers
	Adventures in Space
	News in English
	Columbo

	Prairi Iung
43:55	Fair
05:27	(Sunrise) Duba
12.33	Dhulu
	As
19-38	Maghreb
2 0. 10	'Isha

CHURCHES

St. Mary of Nas Tel. 810740. Assemblies of God Church, Tcl. 632785, 685326. St. Joseph Church Tel. 624590

De la Salle Church Tel. 661757 Terrasagta Church Tel: 622366 Church of the Annunciation Anglican Church Tcl. 625383, Tcl. 628543, Armenian Catholic Church Tel. 771331. an Orthodex Church Tel. St. Ephraien Cherch Tel. 771751. san Interpational Church Tel. 685326 The Church of Jesse Christ of Latter-Day Seints Tel. 815817, 654932. Church of the Nazzene Tel. 675691

WEATHER

Bulletin supplied by the Department of Meteorology.

It will be relatively not and winds will be northwesterly moderate. In Aqaba, winds will be northerly moder-ate and seas calm. 26 / 41

Ethiopia since 1988 when civil war and a manmade famine forced them to flee their homes in south Sudan.

After the fall of Colonel Meneistn last month, many of the southern Sudanese returned to Sudan. They have been in Nasir since the end of May.

Mr. Ingram said there were tens of thousands of Sudanese in Nasir, maybe up to 100,000. A senior Western diplomat told the AP Sunday that the U.N. personnel in Nasir estimated between 70,000-100,000 returnees. The SPLA's relief arm claims there are around 300,000.

"There is no food there. The roads are swamped by rains. Only a small Twin Otter plane with special tires can land on the small airstrip there. Only an airdrop

Yesterday's high temperatures: Amman 36, Agaba 40, Humidity readings: Amman 23 per cent, Aqaba 24 per

USEFUL TELEPHONE

NUMBERS

NIGHT DUTY

661912

623672

AMMAN:

Dr. Tayseer Sadi ..... Dr. Wael Dumati ..... Dr. Jamil Marqad ..... Dr. Abdul Qader Lala

Fires pharmacy .... Ferdows pharmacy

Dr. Fidda Al Jubour

can help them," said the diplomat and the management of the opwho spoke on condition he not be eration including the distribution further identified. He said that talks with the women and children had been government on the proposed airliving in Gambella in western drop had been going on for almost a week. "U.N. personnel there are documenting severe malnutrition. Fifty per cent of the children there have severe malnutrition. The situation there is very bad," the diplomat said. Once SPLA assurances are re-ceived, a U.N. chartered C-130 will drop food on Nasir 130 kilometres west of the Ethiopian

Mr. Ingram stressed that the airlift will be for a short duration and will be terminated as soon as barges will be able to start moving from Kosti in central Sudan to Malakal and then Nasir. "I have assured the government of Sudan that the United Nations will monitor this operation closely and be fully involved in the selection of beneficiaries

ine Abdni Salun ...... (—)

.. 661111

630341

843402

. 630321

661176

787111

EMERGENCIES

Food Control Centre ...... Civil Defeace Department

Highway Police Traffic Police ...

Water and Sewerage

of relief supplies." Mr. Ingram was apparently addressing Sudanese government fears that airlifts could be used to supply rebels with air or He said about 1,000 tonnes of food would be needed to feed the 100,000 people who might be there for a month. He said the C-130 has the capacity to transport that much food if needed. He said if barges did not move, the airdrop would be restarted from both Lekochokio and from inside Sudan.

The U.N. delegation led by Mr. Ingram included representatives of the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees, UN-ICEF and the U.N. Development Programme. They have been on a quick tour of countries affected by the change of government in Ethiopia. They have already visited Ethiopia, Kenya and Djibouti. Khartoum was their last

JORDAN TIMES DAILY GUIDE AND CALENDAR

... 010230 Central Amenan Telepho . 661101 Water Authority
Jordan Electricity Authority
Electric Power

.. 680100 .. 815615

.... 636381 . 08-53200 Queen Alia Intl. Airport., ... 08-53200 HOSPITALS

AMMAN:
	017017/77
Hussein Medical Centre
Khalidi Maternity, J. Amn	. 644281 K
Akileh Maternity, J. Amp, Jabal Amman Maternity
Malbas, J. Amman
Palestine, Shancisani
Shraeisani Hospital
University Hospital	845849
Al-Mussher Hospital	. 00 /22// /

666127/37 6643644 891611/15 Oueen Alia Hospital Amal Hospital . ZARQA: Zarga Govt. Hospital ...... Zarga National Hospital ... Iba Sissa Hospital ....... (09)983323 (09)991071 (09)986732 RBID: Princess Basma Hospital Greek Catholic Hospital Ibn Al Nafees Hospital.... AQABA: . (02)275555 02)277275 02)247100 (02) Princess Haya Hospital .... (03)314111

FOR THE TRAVELLER QUEEN ALLA INTERNATIONAL AIRPORT

This information is supplied by Royal Jordanian (RJ) information depart-

ARRIVALS Royal Jordanian (RJ) Flights (Terminal 1) 11:15 Other Flights (Terminal 2)

DEPARTURES Royal Jordanian (RJ) Flights

......Aqaba (RI) Istanbul, Belgrade (RI) Vicana, Frankfurt (RI) .... Rome, Madrid (RI) Paris, London (R1) Cairo (RJ) Jeddah (RJ) ... Damascus, Lamaka (RJ)

Airport Tel. (08)53200-5, where it should always be verified.

Muscat, Dubai (RJ)
Doha, Bahrain (RJ)

..... Aqaba (RJ) Montreal, New York (RJ)

Moscow (SU) MARKET PRICES 550 / 250 100 / 50 240 / 180 300 / 250 120 / 80 220 / 160 400 / 350 Carrot Camifilower Cucumbers (large) Cucumbers (smail) 500 / 400 370 / 300 150 / 100 100 / 50 170 / 120 200 / 150 Onion (dry)

Sweet melon Tomators

350 / 280

Other Flights (Terminal 2)

Doctors demand better working, pay conditions

AMMAN (J.T.) - A group of 1,300 doctors and specialists working for the Ministry of Health at hospitals and health centres in Jordan have sent a memorandum to the Minister of Health Adnan Jaljouli outlining their demands for better working and pay conditions and noting some drawbacks in the health service system in the Kingdom.

s plan

tight of the it Lebanos, a hardiner inday during inganisation is with the ingention inger cannot inge together and talking only ebanon as a sed: "We are all the second as a second alk about the ordered the

d for alleged per said San name is kept n senior Ship

war note that action taken icy is news a prieties might

inted by Mr. oned the Skin

y. The paper s under order

ted Press for

pond to all the

9. Mr. Shame

ef after senior

a party throws

i's Mossad spr

the party, A

эт the Shin Bet

ammad Rashid

aboard a Pag

r after a brief meeting under ears. postponed

nstandonoulog

ombing of a Par

and wounded [5]

ing organise the bomb. The brief

ns' top security

with the simes

an 1.000 mines in ic to the eminate

Monday, A may

ence alliance had raq has given the I mines laid by its

ng of the Shatt Al

x minehouters -

Myosotis and the e Belgian support

e navy said

blication

papers returned to

Iraq's invasion of

nd daily to publish other is Al Fair Al

ment censorship d

The broadsheet Al

e central bank and their seven-mon

abasis offices, pres Call), a daily wind

e began on January

sentenced to design

up by Kuwait to ti

ing with the los

over debt

ach final agreement a billion dollar ken h Foreign Ministry visit to France by Scokesmin

anjani Spokesma

hat Iranian Deput

French deployed

1. They were due b

Vaezi's visit follow

erween Mr. Raba

ad. France has pai

remaining obstacle

(large) (small)

ed off

Of a two week

nbing

time said Mr.

bed

The memorandum noted. among other matters, that the low salaries given to the doctors working in rural and remote regions of Jordan was discouraging. that health centres and government hospitals lacked proper equipment, that the further away from the capital doctors work, the worse are their living conditions. that the Health Ministry does not have any incentives to promote doctors' work and improve their status and services, that doctors with the same specialisations and years of service receive different salaries and that the health services in Jordan force doctors and specialists to seek work in the private sector where modern equipment is available and the Details of the memorandum, which were published in the local Al Dustour daily, also pointed out that the health services are of three types: those of the Royal Medical Services (the Armed Force), those of the Jordan University Hospital and the Health Ministry which operates hospitals and health centres in various parts of the Kingdom.

The conditions imposed on doctors working for the Health Ministry are the worst in terms of pay and incentives, said the memorandum.

The low-level servies and the lack of proper equipment, the memorandum said, are adversely reflected on the services to the

The memorandum demanded that further training for doctors be offered on regular basis to upgrade their standard and efficiency, that allowances be offered as an incentive to the doctors, especially those working in remote regions of the country, and that equal treatment in terms of promotion and salaries be offered to all doctors employed in the Jordanian health sector, without any exception.

The memorandum said that a decision to scrap the National Medical Institution (NMI), which used to run hospitals, has left the whole health services system in the hands of the Health Ministry. which, they said, should be helped to offer better services to the public by first improving the pay and living conditions of the Jordanian doctors.

AMMAN (Petra) - European parliamentarians have promised to provide economic and political support to Jordan to help it overcome the persent difficult conditions, in the aftermath of the Gulf war, and 1 European parliamentary delegation is expected here this year, according to parliament member Mohammad Abu Alim.

Dr. Abu Alim, who represented Jordan at a Europ-Arab dialogue which was concluded in Strassbourg, France, recently, said that the European parliamentary delegation was expected here in September to discus European-Jordanian cooperation and means of European support for Jordan.

Several Arab delegations took part in the dialogue which was characterised by total frankness. Dr. Abu Alim said.

He said that the dialogue, the first since the end of the Gulf war, revealed a similarity of Arab and European parliamentarians, views with regard to the Palestine question and the participation of European countries in the peacemaking process.

Dr. Abu Alim conveyed Jordan's official and popular views with regard to the Gulf war, noting that the international community had adopted a double standard policy with regard to the

Dr. Abu Alim said that he gave details about damages to the Jordanian economy as a result of the Gulf crisis, noting that now the Kingdom has lost all Arab countries, material and economic

Dr. Abu Alim underlined the importance of Jordan's role in ensuring stability in the Middle East region, noting the democratic transformation in the country, which, he said, is blessed by the Jordanian people.

According to Dr. Abu Alim, parliamentary delegations from Iraq, Syria, Morocco, Tunisia, Algeria, Yemen and Palestine participated in the Euro-Arab di-

HOME NEWS IN BRIEF

King congratulates iceland

AMMAN (Petra) — His Majesty King Hussein Monday sent a cable of good wishes to the president of Iceland on his country's national day. The King wished the president and the people of Iceland further progress and prosperity.

Historians honoured

IRBID (Petra) - Yarmouk University President Ali Mahafza, Dr. Yousef Ghawanmeh, dean of the Arts Faculty, Dr. Abdul Aziz Awad and Mr. Suleiman Al Musa were all presented with medals at a special ceremony held here Monday. The medals were given in recognition of their endeavours as Arab historians who dedicated their work and efforts to writing and other activities related to Arab history.

Half of damaged projects repaired

TAFILEH (Petra) - Department of Public Works officials said Monday that they had completed nearly 50 per cent of the total repair work on agricultural projects damaged in last April's storm which hit the southern regions of Jordan. The storm caused severe damages to crops as well as agricultural roads, bridges, culverts and other property. The government had allocated JD 1 million to finance the cost of repair.

Committee to buy grain from Karak

KARAK (Petra) - A Ministry of Agriculture's committee entrusted with the task of purchasing locally produced cereals embarked on its mission in the Karak Governorate where the grain has been harvested. According to the committee, the local farmers will receive JD 175 for a tonne of wheat, JD 147 for a tonne of bariey and JD 105 for a tonne of lentils.

WHAT'S GOING ON

EXHIBITIONS

X Exhibition of photographs by Bernard Guillot at the French Cultural Centre.

An exhibition of paintings and sculptures by Showqi Shoukini, Mohammad Al Jalous and Rifqi Al Razzaz at Abdul Hameed Shoman Foundation (10:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.)

☆ Palestinian heritage exhibition at the Royal Cultural Centre. A Photo exhibition by Hans Richter at the Goethe Institute.

A Poster exhibition at the British Council.

CONCERT

Tiano recital by British planist Antony Peebles at the Royal Cultural Centre - 8:00 p.m. FILMS

 $\stackrel{\star}{\mathbf{x}}$  The avant-garde films of the twenties: Introduced by Mr. Sami Kamal at the Goethe Institute - 8 p.m.

Workshop calls for rehabilitating, integrating the handicapped in society

AMMAN (J.T.) — A workshop entitled "Community-Based Rehabilitation ... the UNRWA Experience" was opened at the Amman Training Centre, near Al Mukablen, south west of Amman, Monday, with the participation of representatives of various voluntary and social services and organisations in the Kingdom. Chief Chamberlain Prince Raad Ben Zeid, who opened the first session, called for increased efforts to give due care to handicapped perons, who, he said, require rehabilitation services so that they can be integrated in

Prince Raad voiced Jordan's appreciation to UNRWA (the United Nations Relief and Work Agency) for hosting and sponsor-tions to exchange expertise and ing the workshop at its Amman Training Centre and noted that the Jordanian-Swedish Friendship Society would organise another seminar on the rehabilitation of the handicupped in

UNRWA Director in Jordan Franke de Jong addressed the opening session underlining the importance of rehabilitation services to the handicapped and urging the local community to offer the handicapped the opportunity to be incorporated in socie-

This workshop, which would participants from various instituuseful information in providing services to the handicapped peo-

UNRWA submitted a working paper which noted that nearly 80 per cent of the world's handicapped persons live in developing and poor countries. The paper called for a revision of government policies with a view to introduce measures that would cater to the real needs of the handicapped.

The Queen Alia Social Fund (OAF) submitted a working paper revealing that the Kingdom has at least 13,829 handicapped perlast three days, he said, is bound sons and calling for increased to offer the opportunity for the private and public services to

$107m aid from Italy to be used for development projects

Salt Handicraft School, the Ministry of Education's Printing

up by the Royal Scientific Society

(RSS), training of officials and technicians employed by the Jor-dan Agricultural Marketing and

Processing Company (JAMP-

CO), consultancy services for a feasibility study on a new tomato paste factory, development of the

Jordan Electricity Authority

laboratories, a dress-making workshop undertaken by the

Noor Al Hussein Foundation

(NHF), a project to rehabilitate the hearing impaired, a scheme for the development of rural regions carried out by the Queen

Alia Social Welfare Fund in the Irbid Governorate, training of voltage power network undertaken by the Polytechnic School, secured aid from Italy, worth $107 million, following talks in Rome over the past week between the Italian government and a Jordanian delegation, led by Minister of Planning Khaled Amin Abdullah. The minister, archaeological site, the construcmman Mon. day, described his visit and talks with Italian government officials as successful and reflecting the strong ties between Jordan and Italy.

"The Italian side displayed full understanding of the Jordanian economic needs, prompting the Italian government to promise aid worth $107 million to the national economy, according to a protocol signed before the Jordanian delegation's return to Amman," said the minister in a statement.

12, was the first of its kind between the two countries, and the talks helped boost bilateral understanding and cooperation at all levels," the minister said.

"The protocol, signed on June According to Dr. Abdullah,

National Music Conservatory delights audience again

AMMAN (J.T.) - After an interlude of several months (due to the Gulf war) the life of the National Music Conservatory (NMC) is in full swing once

Although the routine academical life of the conservatory was not affected by the events in the area, (examinations are in progress at the moment). the conservatory, unfortunately, could not treat its public to any concerts by visiting musicians.

Now, as if to compensate for those stagnant months, the NMC is pleased to offer a wide range of music performances. Last Sunday the Ludwig String Quartet (France) delighted the Royal Cultural Centre audience with its brilliant performance of classical and contemporary music. The quartet played Mozart, Ravel and a piece by H. Dutilleux. The event was coordinated with the French Cultural Centre.

The National Music Conservatory will also act as a co-sponsor of the programme of conductor Franklin Choset (U.S.), who will have a busy schedule with the NMC, Jordan Radio and Television Corporation and Yarmouk University Music Department. Mr. Choset will also pay a working visit to the army orchestra.

a development project by Muta AMMAN (Petra) — Jordan has the protocol provided for a $55 million grant which would be University, near Karak, The minister said that $30 milforthcoming in the form of techlion had been earmarked for nical assistance for the implethese projects. mentation of 14 development Dr. Abdullah said $12 million projects. These, he said, are the restoration going on at the Jerash would come to Jordan in emergency aid to help the water. agricultural and health sectors tion of the government hospital in over the coming three years. Karak, the enlargement of the In addition, the protoco! pro-Press School, a foundry being set vided for the allocation of $20 million in the form of a loan to set up a tomato paste factory in the northern badia region and to purchase commodities from Italy, needed by the Jordanian market, the minister noted. He said that the Italian government also decided to allocate $26 million to finance food, as aid to Jordan. The aid, to be coming through the Ministry of Supply, would come as rice and flour to be shipped to the Kingdom during 1991, the minister continued. He said that Italy had promised to allocate a further $4 million to finance food supplies to Jordan in The minister was accompanied on the visit by officials representtechnicians employed at the high ing the Ministry of Planning, JAMPCO, the Health Ministry and the Ministry of Education. a mosaics project in Madaba and

RJ resumes Beirut flights

AMMAN (J.T.) - The national airline Royal Jordanian (RJ) Monday resumed its regular flights to Beirut and said that it would be operating three weekly flights to the Lebanese capital.

The resumption of RJ flights came after a six-year suspension that followed the hijacking of one of the airline's planes and the prevailing situation in Lebanon and the Arab World, according to RJ officials.

An RJ Boeing 727, with 11 passengers on board, including Jordanian officials, made the first trip and were welcomed at Beirut Airport by Lebanese Minister of Transport Shawqi Fakhouri and other officials, according to the Jordan News Agency, Petra. Minister of Transport and

Communications Jamal Saraireh. RI Chief Executive Officer and Director General Husam Abu Ghazaleh. Civil Aviation Authority (CAA) Director General Jamal Balgaz and Dr. Majdi Sabri, RJ vice president for commercial affairs as well as the Lebanese ambassador to Jordan were among the officials on board the Minister of Transport Jamal Saraireh expressed his satisfaction with the visit and the return to normal life in Lebanon after a prolonged civil strife.

The minister conveyed greeting to the Lebanese people from His Majesty King Hussein and the Jordanian government and peo-ple, and said that Jordan would not spare any aid to the Lebanese people. He said that RI would place all its maintenance and training facilities at Lebanon's

His Lebanese counterpart, Shawqi Fakhouri, said RJ's resumption of operations to Beirut was a very happy event for Leba-non and the arrival of the first RJ plane in six years was a historic moment for the Lebanese people because it marked the restoration of confidence in Lebanon and its march towards achieving reconciliation and stability.

Mr. Fakhouri announced that most Arab airlines would resume their flights to Beirut after Eid Al

Adha, towards the end of June. Mr. Saraireh and Mr. Fakhouri held a meeting during the six hour visit discussing civil aviation matters and calling for an Arab transport ministers meeting discuss civil aviation issues in t Arab World.

With the Monday flight, I became the eighth foreign airli to resume flights to Beirut sin the Syrian backed Lebanese arr reunited the capital and disarm warring militias in a seve month-old government drive end 16 years of civil war.

RI Chief Abu Ghazaleh said statement to Petra that t resumption of the national a line's flights to Beirut constitu an advanced step towards bolste ing Jordan's ties with other Ar.

"The move reflects RJ's kee ness on pursuing its services i the Jordanian and other Ar nationals as an embodiment of principles and its role as a leadi . Jordanian and Arab instituti helping to build bridges of unde standing and friendship betwe Jordan and Arab and forei countries." Abu Ghazaleh sai

He expressed hope that t near future would witness furth steps in bolstering civil aviation cooperation between Amm

ADC urges intensified campaign to portray true Arab image

said, Israel receives over $6

By Nur Sati

Special to the Jordan Times

AMMAN - Chairman of the Arab-American Anti-Discrimination committee (ADC) Albert Mkheiber was in Jordan earlier this week in order to gather information on certain issues that, he said, were needed to be brought to the attention of the people in the United States. Mr. Mkheiber said the focus of his interest was mainly on water and the Israeli settlement policy.

"We are focusing on (U.S.) double standards and on settlements." Mr. Mkheiber said. The ADC is filing a lawsuit against the Israeli government and its settlement policy as well as for manufacturing tear gas bombs, "What we need now is to educate the American people. We have a winnot take steps and challenge them, we will never get anywhere," he added.

Another issue the ADC is focusing on is Palestine in its entirety. Mr. Mkheiber explained that when the crisis began, the issue of Palestine was brought up. Then it began to narrow down to the West Bank and Gaza, then Jerusalem and now the settlements. "We want to make sure the focus stays on Palestine," he said. "We sent an action alert," he continued, "to all our 25,000 members, asking them to meet with congressmen (on July 4 when they all go to their home towns) to bring these issues and to apply

The ADC will try to win congressmen on their side through strong lobbying. "We will try to organise first the Arab-Americans, then we will bring peace groups and ethnic groups to pressure the congress by asking many questions," Mr. Mkheiber said. He explained that the focus would be on economic issues and international law. For example, he billion every year from the United States. The ADC wants these groups to oppose it on grounds that there are so many problems at home (U.S.), most pressing being poverty and un-employment. "We are prepared to sue the American government for aid that goes to Israel for settlements, in violation of the Geneva Convention," Mr. Mkheiber said. "We are also getting doctors, journalists, all sorts of people to promote the issue of a Palestinian resolution, with the Palestine Liberation Organisation (PLO) speaking for the Palestinian people," Mr. Mkheiber added. In order to see for themselves the situation, the ADC feels it is important to bring congressmen into the Middle East, especially the occupied territories. Concluding, Mr. Mkheiber said that basically "what we want to do is raise the big issues, among them the water problem, in preparation for a peace conference. The ADC Vice President for Middle East Affairs Wafa Nasr said: "What is the point of sitting down at the peace table and discussing boundaries when we are being robbed of our water? This (the water issue) is directly tied to peace and it must be taken to the United States, he added. "We believe that water will be the next Middle East war." Mr. Nasr continued. "The priorities today should be discussions about water rather than oil," he added. The ADC, according to Mr.

Mkheiber, is travelling city to city, country to country gathering support for Arabs towards a peace process. "It is not easy. What we are doing is fighting the largest lobby (Israelis') for all of us," he said.

How could Jordan's ADC chapter, one of 70, help? "Through information," Mr. Mkheiber said. "If we get information quickly and accurately, we can disseminate it and take it to (U.S.) congress." More importantly, he said, is the cultural exchange. "To have more Jordanians and Palestinians come to the United States with paintings and other cultural displays." In that manner, he said, the image of Arabs can be overcome by beautiful art work.

One of the biggest issues ADC had to counter during the crisis was the hate crimes. "During every crisis, Arab-Americans are the convenient scapegoats," he said. From 1985 to 1987 there was an increase in these crimes. From 1987 to 1990 there was a significant decrease, because of the intifada. During the war, hate crimes rose sharply in the United States "ranging from a child being slapped because he spoke Arabic to a mosque, a church or businesses blown to pieces," Mr. Mkheiber said.

Even congressmen and other officials, Mr. Mkheiber said. saw the Arabs as terrorists. "It is absurd, an institutionalised form of racism," he said.

At that point, the ADC worked on getting support. "we brought Arab-Americans. Asian-Americans, African-Americans and even Jewish-Americans, who supported our cause, and eventually we had the media and congress on our side," the chairman told the

The hate crimes were done by politically or racially motivated people and "so we gained a lot of support from the ordinary American who wrote letters of apology to us," Mr. Mkheiber said.

Mr. Nasr added: "We had contacts with the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) and stopped many things that were not felt in the Middle East, but which could have had bad effects, like no Arabs being able to travel to the United States.'

Mr. Mkheiber and Mr. Nasr Sunday left Jordan for Syria and Lebanon.

Production Supervisor Wanted The Bani Hamida Women's Weaving Project Is seeking a Jordanian female with 3 years

experience in

- Production planning and implementation

- Production supervision and training

Field work (rural development setting)

Design and color coordination

Report writing.

Applicant must be:

- Fluent in English and Arabic

Artistically inclined

Very organised and reliable

— People oriented

Qualified applicants please phone 658696/7

Chairman of the Board of Directors: MAHMOUD AL KAYED Director General: MOHAMMAD AMAD

Editor-in-Chief: GEORGE S. HAWATMEH

Editorial and advertising offices: Jordan Press Foundation,

University Road, P.O. Box 6710, Amman, Jordan. Telephones: 667171/6, 670141-4 Telex: 21497 ALRAI JO

Facsimile: 661242 The Jordan Times is published daily except Fridays. Subscription and advertising rates are available from the Jordan Times advertising department.

Saltier than salt

THE ASSERTION by the European Community (EC) that negotiations between the Iraqi government and Kurdish leaders are at a dead end and the 12-nation bloc's call for further United Nations and American action to "protect" Kurds in northern Iraq come as a surprise when seen in light of definite statements by Kurdish representatives that an agreement has already been worked out to resolve the Kurdish problem. Coupled with the British reluctance to release its grip on some of the economically strategic lands in northern Iraq — they being the most fertile in the country — the EC position cannot but be seen as part of an ongoing campaign specifically aimed at keeping Iraq offbalance and denying its leadership any chance to restore normalcy to the war-shattered country.

Perhaps the apparent success of the Baghdad talks has disappointed some quarters and the sudden European discovery that the negotiations are deadlocked is a manifestation of that disappointment. Needless to say, any significant progress in resolving the Kurdish problem without bringing about a threat of partition of the country is seen by these quarters as a victory that the Iraqi government does not deserve and an element which will help Baghdad devote itself to addressing the problems left behind by the devastating Surprising as it is, the European Community position borders on being more Kurdish than the Kurds themselves. We wonder what the Kurdish peace negotiators have to say about it.

While we do not know how the European Community reached its conclusion that the Baghdad negotiations are stalled, we do know one thing: Any procrastination on the part of the international community in allowing the Iraqi government to resume total control of the country will have very adverse repercussions and add to the misery and suffering of the Iraqi Haven't the Iraqi people suffered enough? Or is it that the world community — at least its so-called leadership - harbours centuries-old hostility towards the people of Iraq to the extent that they are condemned to continued misery and suffering with no light at the end of the tunnel?

ARABIC PRESS COMMENTARIES

AL RA'I daily Monday discussed the graduation of a new batch from the military wing of Muta University and said that the young graduates will now take their position side by side with their colleagues in defending the homeland. It said Muta University was a great symbol for Islam and for the Kingdom, and the graduates come from an Islamic site reminding us of the Muta battle in Islam; and its graduates complement the Kingdom's march towards democracy. The paper said that the democratic process in Jordan is best protected by Jordan's security and armed forces because true democracy cannot survive with the presence of internal enemies with harmful designs towards Jordan and its people. Jordan is in need of continued stability and safe and secure people if the country is to achieve further progress and development; and each member of the Jordanian family has a duty towards enhancing the country's well being in every respect, the paper noted. The paper said that the new graduates who received military training to protect their nation from internal and external enemies enjoy the people's full confidence because, through them, the Jordanian people can harbour further aspirations and hopes for a safer future.

Sawt Al Shaab Arabic daily echoed a call by the Jordanian government Sunday on international and Arab and Islamic organisations and governments to intervene and put an end to the atrocities committed in Kuwait against innocent Palestinians and Jordanians. These barbaric acts of slaughter and morders committed after theatrical trials against those people who had built up Kuwait and its institutions transforming it into a modern state are done by irresponsible Kuwaitis who have sold out their Arab Nation, said the paper. The daily described the Kuwaiti government as blood thirsty intent on killing innocent people and shedding the blood of Palestinians and Jordanians under the pretext that they had collaborated with the Iraqi forces during the occupation. We had thought that the Kuwaitis would benefit from the occupation and the Gulf war lessons and emerge with a new character and new principles guiding their positive relations with their Arab brothers, the paper continued. It seems that the Kuwaitis have not repented what they had been doing before the war, and are indifferent to the disasters and the economic destruction that had befallen their country and the neighbouring states, but rather they are intent on offering continued service to the colonial powers who pursue the act of pillaging Arab wealth,

• :

Despite problems, democracy is here to stay

By George Hawatmeh

JORDAN has had its fair share of problems this spring. The Gulf war has ended with the defeat of Iraq, leaving Jordanians to wonder about the emerging new order in the Middle East. The economy is being sustained, but there are difficult questions ahead. The growing population (over 200,000 returnees from Kuwait, along with their 30,000 cars), water shortages and pollution are other major issues that the country has to

But one of the biggest challenges that face Jordan at the present is what to make of its democratic experiment and to see whether democracy can become a way of life for its citizens and hopefully for the whole region.

While it is too early and difficult to learn every lesson the Gulf crisis and war have taught, there is nevertheless a generally agreed view that without truly democratic political systems this part of the world will continue to suffer from strife and upheavals, warped development and economic problems. Jordan is at the forefront of subscribers to this view, both by virtue of the experience gained from its 18month-old experiment with democratisation and because there is not any question that the pre-war political system (or order) in the area has totally failed.

Despite internal and external resistance and pressures against going out on a limb to practise democracy in the neighbourhood of mostly autocratic regimes. Jordan appears determined to stay the course. True, Jordanians are still learning the art and as such cannot claim to know it all. But they are in the middle of historic change, and would not want others to stand obstacle in the face of what has to be a healthy transformation process. Nor, in fact, do they wish to see some overheated and localised sentiments rock the

Of the late there has been any number of controversial issues seriously debated at home. Most concern government decisions and attitudes on such important matters as education, corruption, agriculture, pollution by factories and in dams.

It remains to be seen how and when democracy will impact the outcome (if there is one) on either or all of these issues that had largely been "national security" material not long ago. So far, however, the debates have been not worse or more circusy than in any working democracy we

This probably means that earlier trepidations about "suddenly unleashing public freedoms" were not totally justified or accurate. But, more importantly perhaps, it means that our people are politicised, and tolerant, enough to know what the exercise is all about and to play it as well as they

Democracy in Jordan is in its infancy stages, it has to be said, but indications are that it can grow on Jordanians and prosper if it is nurtured and protected as an irreversible

After all, the entrenchment of democracy at home and its spread in the region is the only viable answer to our problems. And in these not only the home-grown controversial issues are included, but also the Palestinian problem and the future order of the Arab

The Jordanians, who I bewould be a kind of rapid deployment force, capable of quashing sudden threats to the U.S.-Israel alliance, wherever they might

Meanwhile, the traditionally

Democratic cast of AIPAC's lay leadership, reflecting the Jewish community as a whole, would have to be broadened in order to lieve are intelligent people, know that there is no easy way out of the predicaments that the Gulf war has left with us. The only clear way therefore is to go ahead with the social, economic and political metamorphosis that is needed to create new thinking and new realism in the area, starting, where credibility should start,

Naturally, there are always reactionary forces that do not want society to outpace their wordly development. But as long as each and every side respects and abides by inhouse democratic rules, the outcome will no doubt be progress and a more healthy development process.

There has been a thorough and intensive debate by all the political groups in the Kingdom resulting in the formation and adoption of the National

Charter which will serve a guide for political organisati and work in the future. document, as has be approved by all party memb of the Royal Commiss which drafted it and ... National Congress that held in Amman on June is a progressive social contr that will further caba democracy and phyralism in Observers like me watching with interest the tr omes of a nascent democra at work. I am not the only o amonest them who is wager on Jordan to emerge strong than at any time before.

A shorter version of this arti-has appeared recently in "3 dan: issues and perspective a bi-monthly newsletter p lished by the Jordan Information Bureau in Washington

The men with muscle: the AIPAC leaders, battling for Israel and among themselves

By Lloyd Grove Washington Post

SOON after becoming executive director of the American Israel Public Affairs Committee - the pro-Israel lobby known as AIPAC - Tom Dine propounded his theory of the Muscular Jew.

It was the early 1980s, and he was busy pumping AIPAC up into a powerful, grass-roots pressure group with members in the tens of thousands.

In Dine's philosophy of brawn, which some at the lobby believed was not entirely metaphysical, there were Muscular Jews and there were others. Muscular Jews participated in policy-making through the political process, and refused to be shunted aside. The others were afraid to stand up and be counted.

Many prominent Jews in the 1930s and 1940s were of the non-muscular type, Dine believed. They thought gentle persuasion could coax the Roosevelt administration into saving millions from the Nazi death camps. In 1939, the German passenger liner St. Louis, carrying 937 Jewish refugees, was refused entry to the United States and forced to return to Europe. If AIPAC had existed then, Dine believed, it would have gotten those refugees off that ship.

AIPAC was a muscular orga-

"You haven't heard my civics lesson," Dine said recently at AIPAC headquarters, an office as well guarded as many embassies, a few blocks from the Capitol. "I should have a bust in here of James Madison. It's his system that we are living with, and enjoying, and utilising: checks and balances! The idea that policy is made through, in this case, two branches of government, and citizens are involved in the making of it. To me, that's what this country is about — and I feel it very, very strongly."

At 51, he has the slender build of an inveterate jogger, and fairly shines with sunny good humour. He's so deft at communicating his protean enthusiasms — whether baseball, Greek mythology or the lifestyles of the rich and famous — that people often mention his "charisma." He's by turns funny, profane and professorial, happy giving a disquisition on the Corwinian theory of political struggle in the formulation of foreign policy, or dishing gossip about Caspar Weinberger and Richard Darman - two of AIPAC's betes noires.

But occasionally, when angry. and shouting at a reporter, he exudes a ready-to-rumble menace, as though he were still accompanying his teammates into the enemy locker room — as a first baseman for his Cincinnati high school, circa 1955 — after the other club had mocked him with antisemitic taunts.

Like other top AIPAC em-ployees. Dine is well paid for his trouble, in keeping with the lobby's goal of attracting the best talent. In 1989, according to AIPAC's latest available tax return, his compensation package included $146,817 in salary, $47,223 in expenses and $20,520 in benefits — in the high-middle range of executive compensation at comparable Washington orga-

But AIPAC is no ordinary pubtic affairs group — and Dine is no ordinary lobbyist. He is, in a sense, the keeper of the flame, defending the Jewish homeland that emerged out of centuries of persecution - not least the Holocaust of World War II. The emotional pull of these memories is a powerful inducement for AIPAC's contributors, who expect that their gifts of money, which are not tax-deductable, will be use to safeguard the Jewish

In August 1988, at Dine's request, fellow members of the lobby's officer committee extended him a $150,000 mortgage loan at 61/2 per cent interest, around four points below the prevailing market rate. Dine characterises the loan, to help him buy a new home, as part of his compensation package. He claimed a financial loss on his precious Washington house, which he said in a lawsuit against a pesticide company had been made uninhabitable by chlordane treatment. The parties settled out of court. In recent years, the lobby has also extended smaller. less favourable below-marketrate loans to more junior employees, for a variety of personal

"In the business world it's very common," said Washington lawyer Tom Asher, who specialises in advising nonprofits. "It's very unusual in the nonprofit world, and particularly very unusual" for an organisation that raises money from members of the public, he said. AIPAC President Mayer Mitchell, breaking his rule of never speaking to the press, said the transactions are "perfectly legal," adding: "If members of our grass-roots constituency asked about it, I'm sure they'd be totally satisfied." AIPAC's lay leadership, led by Beverly Hills millionaire Lawrence Weinberg, recruited Dine from the staff of Sen. Ted Kennedy. Dine's career had spanned the Peace Corps and the Foreign Service, the civil rights and antiwar movements, 10 years on the Senate staff, membership in the Council on Foreign Relations and a fellowship at Brookings, and Kennedy's 1980 presidential campaign. He was the Massachusetts Democrat's liaison to the Jewish community and his adviser on

Middle East issues, having visited

Israel twice. Dine's second trip, in 1975, made a profound impression on him. He toured the countryside with a geographer from Tel Aviv University, a former paratrooper who introduced him around to his buddies on the moshavim and kibbutzim. They were veterans of four wars going back to 1948, and their lives, it seemed to Dine, were rich and tragic. He was especially moved by a man wearing an undershirt whose useless arm hung limply from its socket. They were tough, these sunbronzed farmer-warriors, but they were also intellectually engaged. The bookshelves in their humble houses were filled with Russian history and Marxist theory. Dine had never had more stimulating conversations. He was smitten by these crazy Jews, as he thought of them, who were making a country work. They would never let a bully kick sand in their faces. Muscle building

When Dine arrived at AIPAC in the fall of 1980, it was a small, Washington-focused lobby that relied on professional staff and friendships in Congress to push the pro-Israel agenda, dealing with bureaucrats in the executive branch mainly to ferret out in-

Under AIPAC's founder, a theological reasons. AIPAC soft-spoken former newspaperman named I.L. Kenen, and Kenen's successor as executive director, the blustery Morris Amitay, the lobby adhered to Kenen's Rules": 1) Get behind legislation; don't step out in front of it (that is, keep a low profile). And 2) Lobby the Congress to pressure the White House to overrule the Arabists in the State Department.

Dine's first test was the AWACS battle of 1981. The Reagan administration had yet to establish its pro-Israel bona fides, and wanted to sell to Saudi Arabia $8.5 billion in military equipment, including five sophisticated Airborne Warning and Control System planes. Menachem Begin, then Israeli prime minister, vehemently opposed the sale. In January, the lobby embarked on a address the new political realities of Washington — where the GOP controlled the Senate as well as the White House. Over the next decade, the lobby would redouble its fund-raising, quadruple its staff and quin-tuple its membership around the country. Out of AIPAC would

"I believe people are basically selfdestructive." When people are doing well, why do they all of a sudden do badly? Why do moths go to flames, when they could fly anywhere? Take two successful first-term presidencies - Nixon and Reagan. What happens immediately into the second term? Hubris sets in. Misguided, misdirected policies. Looseness. They forget their raison d'etre." - Tom Dine, AIPAC executive director.

10-month marathon to kill it. In the first two weeks of October, a resolution disapproving the sale swept through the House Foreign Affairs Committee, the House floor and the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. Reagan began stroking senators one-on-one in the family quarters, while his aides twisted arms outside. AIPAC needed 51 votes to win on the Senate floor.

The day before the vote, the lobby's fragile majority shattered when Sen. Roger Jepsen of Iowa — who had promised an AIPAC audience, "I pledge my efforts and my vote to block this sale" -suddenly announced that he was switching sides. Jepsen had neg-lected to warn AIPAC or his key Jewish backer in Des Moines, a wealthy Republican named Bud Hockenberg. The Senate ended up endorsing the sale, 52 to 48. Sitting in Jepsen's office bours after the heresy, Dine was en-raged. "Roger," he told the sena-tor, "everybody has the freedom to change his mind. But you didn't have the courtesy to call Bud Hockenberg!" Dine was only partly mollified when Jepsen lost his reelection bid to Democrat Tom Harkin, who received more than $100,000 from pro-Israel political action committees, and when then-Secretary of State Alexander Haig asked Dine's help in passing the administration's foreign aid bill - an acknowledgement from above that the lobby had arrived. There was no getting around the fact that AIPAC had lost. Never ### again, if Dine could help it. A 'Well-Oiled Machine'

The AWACS defeat confirmed his view that it was time to take the issue beyond the Beltway. He analysed the votes in the House and Senate, and identified 25 states in which the lobby needed to organise grass-roots campaign, not only among Jews but also evangelical Christians who supported the Jewish state for spring - like Athena from the head of Zeus, as Dine thought of - an influential pro-Israel think tank, the Washington Institute for Near East Policy, headed by former AIPAC research analyst Martin Indyk. A host of conservative Republicans would assume leadership positions, taking an active role in the lobby's day-to-day operations. (Today, three of AIPAC's top four lay leaders are GOP loyalists), And instead of relying on Congress, as I.L. Kenen had admonished, AIPAC would systematically lobby the executive branch and attempt to influence policy at the

It all made perfect sense. The lobby, Dine believed, would be more powerful than ever - "the well-oiled AIPAC machine," he called it. In due course, he was invited for tete-à-tetes at the State Department by Haig's successor, George Shultz -- the fireplace crackling in Shultz's elegant seventh-floor sanctum - and occasionally accepted phone calls from Ronald Reagan himself. The administration that had begmn so poorly became, by the late 1980s, the most pro-Israel in his-tory. Foreign aid bills passed by ever-widening margins, and Arab arms sales seldom materialised without the lobby's tacit approval.

AIPAC had come a long way since its start in 1954. But instead of savouring its successes, the lobby turned inward, devoting energy once reserved for legislative battles to intramural blood-Some employees sensed a troubling new ethos of distrust and paranoia. At least one — Tom Pines, now a congressional aide -- was escorted out of AIPAC headquarters by a security guard two hours after asking a raise, his papers and Rolodex locked away.

A new direction — and trouble By most accounts, the trouble had started in 1982, when then-President Weinberg advised Dine would also widen its focus and to hire Steven Rosen, an analyst toil in the hinterlands, ensuring at the Rand Corp. in Santa Monipro-Israel planks in state party ca, Calif. Rosen, a former politicplatforms. In the end, Dine al science professor who had cohoped, AIPAC's army of activists written a popular textbook "The Logic of International Rela-tions," had grown increasingly frustrated during his three years at Rand.

> There was little market at the think tank or its principle client, the Pentagon, for the work that had become Rosen's consuming intellectual passion: studying ways that Israel and the United States could cooperate militarily.

"Steve made people nervous." said a Rand employee who knew him when he worked there. "He made no secret of his pro-Israel bias, and that's deathin this kind of environment." A flap ensued in November 1981, when the New York Times. described a paper on the subject - which Rosen had done on his own, under private sponsorship - as a Rand Corp. product. The Rand public affairs office disassociated itself from Rosen's paper, noting that it was "incomplete"

The paper urged the Pentagon to pre-position the hardware of a mechanised infantry division in Israel in order to counter the Soviet threat in the Gulf. A year later AIPAC published Rosen's paper, under the title

"The Strategic Value of Israel," as the first in a series of handsomely produced monographs on U.S.-Israel relations. Rosen was by then the lobby's new research director, and, as Dine once admiringly told an associate, "the best bureaucratic infighter I ever

Rosen, 48, has little of Dine's polish - quickly guzzling the remains from a beer bottle, as he stands by the refrigerator in his kitchen after pouring out a glass for his guest. Sleepy-eyed, he talks in a low, insinuating voice, punctuated by sighs. It's the same whether he's making an off-colour joke or offering to enumerate the precise 15 ways in which the Middle East peace process could fall apart.

An incisive analyst, he helped convince key members of the Reagan administration that the Jewish state was a U.S. "strategic asset" in the struggle with the Soviets. It was a departure from traditional arguments that America's commitment to Israel — the Middle East's sole democracy -is principally moral, cultural and emotional. Rosen helped encomage more cooperation than the two countries had ever enjoyed,. and was credited with roles in promoting joint military exercises, the U.S.-Israeli "Arrow" programme to develop an antimissile defence system, and the restructuring of Israel's debt to the United States.

But with the end of the cold war, the "strategic" argument lost steam. During Desert Storm, when Israel might have damaged the U.S.-led coalition by responding to Iraqi missile strikes, the country was a "potential strategic liability," in the words of Graham Fuller, one of Rosen's successors at Rand. Still, on a recent trip to Jerusalem to announce a new phase of the largely U.S.-financed Arrow programme, Defence Secretary Dick Chency reaffirmed the "enormous importance (of) the strategic relationship with

If Tom Dine is the bright face

AIPAC shows to the world man who speaks around country and testifies to Cong Steven Rosen is the lobby's t room strategist — a plan schemer and conspiracy the (He would not permit his pic to be taken for this series.) fond of the witticism "Every in Washington has a back p lem, a computer problem a turf problem." He grew up in Brooklyn Long Island, reared on the th and-cut of left-wing politics. father was purged from American Communist Part the late 1940s for writing a p phlet sounding the alarm excessive Soviet influence. to their ideology, Rosen's par were anti-Zionists, sympath with the Arab cause as a w liberation movement. But Re rebelled against his parents' Alief system --- and becam neoconservative and friend of Jewish state.

He came by his pro-la activism circuitously, as a ye professor at the University Pittsburgh, researching a tre on "The Ideal Type of W He'd been examining caround the world in which ad saries had oscillated between lence and diplomacy, but w he got to Israel and its A neighbours, he quickly lost terest in his theoretical st Rosen discovered that he more concerned about Isra real-world security, and security of the Jewish peopl his people. His reading of his told him physical strength make a contribution. After going to work AIPAC, Rosen took the step of reversing the name of 'information and research" partment, which traditionally supported the legislative de ment by feeding facts to mem of Congress. Now it was search" first, to conform Rosen's vision of a mini-ti tank populated by PhDs. It w be his independent power b One of his favourite phrases out the begemonic designs nations — "capabilities gene their own intentions" - see tered. He throught he c

to apply to him as well. Hiring a team of pro-Is experts in economics, defi and foreign policy, Rosen flet out his own notion of execu branch lobbying, proposing a AIPAC province under his di tion. He also built relations with conservatives in Cong and assidnously courted m bers of AIPAC's lay leaders

The legislative department, by lobbyist Doug Blooming watched with growing suspice then declared open war. could not "lobby" the executions of the countries of the countr branch, Bloomfield argued. It insulated from public press and answered only to the pident. But you could be opted" by the executive branch. You could be seduced into ce your strength. A subscriber to Frank Roosevelt's theory of "creatension," Dine stood back and the battles rage. Others who lenged Rosen had a way of appearing. Among those vanished were two editors Near East Report, the lob weekly newsletter, and Art Chotin, AIPAC's deputy dire and a close friend of Dine's. Is oft-recounted incident, D dilingly presented Chotin with will serve , ical organism the future. I as bas bit il party memb al Commiss ed it and a nan on Junk! ve social conti arther enhat interest the lik ascent demons m who is water 3 emerge strote time before TSION of this are s like me *

d recently in " and perspecie e Jordan Infon i in Washington

ows to the world speaks around d testifies to Care sen is the lobby tegist - 1 pe nd conspiracy in not permit his n for this series.)] e witticism Emp egton has a hade maputer problem :

w up in Brookle, 🛂 act, rested on their of left-wing poling as purged from 1 Communication 1940s for activity unding the slate: Soviet influence is . . . deology Rashing d-Zioniss, small And case sime n reoverest be los . . Susing By Mark) ervative and mental ame by its pole. Corcuitousiv, & LE or at the limes igh, researching the ne Ideal Type of E been examining a the world in white and oscillated beares and diplomacy, has to Israel and a ! ours, he quick is in his theorems's discovered that concerned about k orld security. at y of the levis pop ople. His reading dis im physical smap He throught k a contribution er going to med. C. Rosen took is: if reversing the me mation and resid ent. which training rted the legislate! by feeding facts was ongress. Now it & first, to and n's vision of 1

populated by PhDs.h. is independent particle of his favourite particle the hegemonic is capabilities. own intentions oply to him as ring a ream of F foreign policy. Rose his own notion of ach lobbying proposition of the AC province under He also built in ( a conservatives in assiduously comb he legislative department lobbyist Dolls n declared open in id not "lobb" in the

meh. Bloomield and ulated from public d answered only not not But you could be red by the excelle ne could be seduced our strength. A subscriber oosevelt's theory had a main of the battles rage and a mane had a nged Rosen and h meanne. Among a mished Refe in ear East Report. eekly newslend horm. AIPAL's their ft-recounted incides

(Continued on page

Arab immigrants integrate in French society

By Tahar Ben Jelloun

FOR the sons and daughters of North African immigrants living in France, the Gulf war raised the question of integration suddenly and somewhat brutally. For many, it was time to choose. Called upon to take a stance in a complex war, they passed the test calmly and with dignity. Their behaviour was exemplary. On the eve of the war, politicians and the media speculated a lot about the "transfer of the Gulf war to France." People feared trouble to such an extent that weaponry shops were deaned out by citizens "preparing to defend themselves. There was evidence of tension everywhere, and no one could predict how the hundreds of thousands of young Arabs would react during the most painful moments of the war.

The degree of integration had already been put to the test plenty of times during the 80s. In 1987 and 1988, there was a surge of Islamic unrest brought on by the failure of the associative movements and by the failure of the political parties, particularly those on the left, to offer this new generation any serious prospects for the future. The disturbance died down quite quickly, even though extremists remained rest-

Apart from these fits of unrest. it is true to say that yourge people of North African origin are slowly becoming integrated, although this sometimes happens in a somewhat confused manner. Strangely enough it is the ones who have to do the absorbing who are creating the most problems. There are prejudices and fears. The prejudices are superficial. They have to do with the myths which have surrounded Arabs for centuries, and which took on wider proportions with the Algerian war. The fear springs not from the difference but from the resemblance. The more these young people react like young French people from their own social set, the more het-up the xenophobes get.

They see that France is changing and being shaped partly by populations which are not of European origin. That does not mean to say that the process of integration for Poles. Portuguese or Spaniards was quick and unproblematic. However, France has never been to war with these countries, still less has it had any colonial relationship with them. The Algerian war has left a deep wound in people's memories. Only the successful integration of the children from this period of history can beal it.

The other fear concerns the Islamic religion. Young Arabs are not rejecting Islam in any systematic way. For example, most of them care about observing Ramadan, because it is a community affair, and they do it out of solidarity and a desire not to provoke those who believe in it. Those who have tried to establish a rigorous form of Islam have only attracted a political lunatic fringe. But those who are seeking a place for themselves in France have understood that anything other than a moderate Islamic set-up would be an obstacle.

Arab girls have played a most important role in this process of development. It is the girls who become integrated first. They work and are often successful in their studies. Consequently, they get even with their brothers, who often have less ambition. The Arab family has developed rapidly thanks to this fierce will on the part of girls to throw in their lot with a society where the laws give women rights.

Islam, in its politically manipulated form, did not stand up to the cultural and psychological onslaught. That is why it can only be spiritual, an inner experience on the part of the individual, All the rest is merely deviation and ideology that the Gulf war swept away, or at least, it diminished the effects of it.

The process of integration currently under way represents a failure on the part of the North African countries. They did not foresee or expect that families who emigrated would evolve socially. The Arab countries used more or less to control their emigrants. They still had a grip on the single men who left but then came back every summer bringing money and presents. From the moment their families moved to France, they no longer needed to transfer currency to their country of origin. This is particularly true of the Algerian community.

The Moroccans are in a different position. Fewer of them have settled in France for good. The nine billion francs they transfer every year are an indication, not of non-integration, but of attachment to their country of origin. However, a generation from now the children of these young people will be completely French. It will take about 30 years.

We know that within each socio-professional class young North Africans are no more delinquent or violent than young French people. Studies have shown that young Arabs have a higher success rate at school than young French people of the same background. This is particularly evident in girls. What relationship will these young people have with their parents' country? They will see it from a distance. It will be a secondary memory, the

They will feel that they are Arabs, but in a sentimental, instinctive way. It is impossible to forget your origins, your roots. For, successful integration is not question of renouncing that which constitutes the whole fabric of your being. Successful integration cannot be achieved by sweeping away the past or denying your origins. Some French people demand of these young people that, in order to be accepted, they must in some way 'make amends" and distance themselves, for example, from the Islamic values of their narents. Such demands provoke annoyance and rebound back on those who make them.

No one asked this of the Poles. the Portuguese, the Spaniards of the Italians because they come from the same Judao-Christian sphere life. In the case of the North Africans, besides the cultural and religious differences, there is now a mutual memory torged by the dreadful process of war. Officially, the problem is Islam, at least, Islam as it is presented by the media, in the light of the politically distorted versions brought about by "totalitarian" revolution. The message here is clear. Successful integration means harmony, mutual respect and tolerance, and one cannot dispense with this basis. Those who sincerely want to become part of the fabric of French society to the extent of blending in without losing their souls know that mutual respect is essential. However, the resistance does not always come from them. It comes from those who are afraid of the future, and who forget that France is three-quarters made up of additions and mixtures from just about everywhere.

Integration is not something miraculous. It is an everyday pro-

memory of another memory, cess and an everyday task, and it sometimes involves violence and conflicts. Manifestations of anger are not the expression of ill humour on the part of bored young people. These people have no jobs certainly. But they are expressing something much deeper and more basic, namely, the desire to enter into society and take part in shaping and developing what they consider to be their country. Consequently, as the sociologist Adil Jazouli said, they are trying to turn "violence into conflict." They are organising so that they can have something to say in the face of social institu-

> This "conflictive integration" generation as Jazouli calls it, is mprovising ways of approaching society and making its way in. It has broken away from its parents' generation, who did not try to penetrate the fabric of French society. But this break does not constitute negation or rejection of what the "older" generation represents symbolically. Unlike the latter, the younger generation has been led to consolidate the process of integration through culture. Because the young feel more French than Arab, they have decided to go in for integration in a way that is almost irreversible, even if that means conflicts and obstacles. It has to he said that in the early 1970s no ne would have thought it possible that, in 1990, the head of state of a Latin American country would be of Arab origin. See you in Moroccan-born Tahar Ben Jelloun lives in France. Quartet has published four of his novels; the most recent. Silent Day In Tangiers, appeared last month. He won the Prix Goncourt in 1987. The article is reprinted from The Turkish government denounced Monday the peace talks in Bagh-

Kurdish people. The radical separatist Kurdish Workers Party (PKK) also accused Washington and Ankara of establishing the "security zone" in northern Iraq bordering Turkey to help strangle Kurdish re-

A statement from the PKK, which has training camps in Lebanon's Bekaa Valley, said Kurdish rebel leaders based in Iraq were involved in conspiracies would only bring frustration, setbacks and disasters - in short, inevitable death - to our people

iran wants

That report was not substantiated by Western reporters on the In another part of his confer-for their return, and of course their return depends on the security created for them on the other side of the border." Mr. Habibi said that henceforth he would be acting as gov-cabinet decisions to the press at a weekly briefing every Monday. Mr. Habibi also denied Iran is trying to develop nuclear weapons and said its nuclear

The men with muscle, AIPA leaders battling for Israel

gift of a knife at his going-away

party in 1985. In December 1988, Bloomfield was fired in a blast of unwelcome publicity airing AIPAC's inner turmoil. The lobby paid him a year's salary as severance, conditioned on his not discussing AIPAC with outsiders. Rosen had won.

AIPAC Kremlinologists — and there are many in the pro-Israel community — blamed Rosen for what they saw as the lobby's alliance with the hardline Likud Party at the expense of the dovish Labourites. Rosen himself, meanwhile, indulged an appetite for ad hominem, warning of conspiracies among various Jewish organisations to undermine AIPAC's mission, and keeping tabs on former AIPAC communications director Barbara Amouyal, years after she gave a damaging internal memo to the CBS programme "60 Minutes." Not surprisingly, he made fierce enemies. Some of them, to his dismay, spread wild rumours about his private and professional

"Steve is a brilliant guy, but he's always been known as a black-and-white guy," said a close friend of Rosen's who asked not to be identified. "There are no shades of gray. He's vey, very combative and tends to dominate intellectually, so I think that builds up a lot of resentment among people. A lot of people have it out for him."

In the end, Rosen gained control of three AIPAC entities the foreign policy issues department that includes executive branch lobbying, the media-liaison operation and Near East Report. He helped steer an ex-Republican operative named Howard Kohr, whom he originally hired to lobby the White House, into the newly revived job of AIPAC deputy director - a development deemed significant by many outsiders, who saw it as evidence of AIPAC's "Republicanisation." Dine, meanwhile, tried to present a united front, describing AIPAC as "a lean, flexible, stateof-the-art yet conservative operation" that will always be "straight... legally as well as politically." But within the organisation, the executive director was becoming increasingly careful about what he said. He had learned from the rare occasions when he staked out public positions different from the Israeli government's, only to be greeted by criticism from some members of AIPAC's leadership. Worried about creating jealousy whenever the spotlight shone on him, he only agreed to go on the record for this series if his quotes were read back to him for approval.

rock and a hard place," sai Edelman, president of the pro-Israel group America Peace Now, who has know for 20 years. "AIPAC fine in a somewhat difficult pe because some of its const and some of its major fi supporters are rather co tive. On some issues, it fine being pulled in more than direction." The lobby - which in t decade has never been mo cessful, or more prospen more powerful - now fac and potentially troubling, al realities: an unfriendly nistration prodding Isr make peace, and a Congre may be unable, or unwill open its coffers further.

"I believe people are b self-destructive," Dine sa recent night over dinner. people are doing well, 1 they all of a sudden do Why do moths go to when they could fly any Take two successful firs presidencies - Nixo Reagan. What happen mediately into the second Hubris sets in. Misguide directed policies. Loos They forget their raison of

Could the same thing happened to AIPAC? "Outsiders may say Dine said. "I don't think

Badran resigns

(Continued from page 1) if he chose not to incorporate the Muslim Brotherhood.

Most of the sources interviewed by the Jordan Times said that Mr. Masri would embody the concept of national unity between Palestinians and Jordanians in the Kingdom and that this will indeed help his cause inside and outside parliament

Mr. Masri, who was-born in Nablus in 1942 and represented his city in the Jordanian Parliament before the Kingdom severed legal and administrative ties with the Isreali-occupied West Bank, has also held prominent posts in consecutive governments.

He was minister of foreign affairs from January 84 to December 88 and deputy prime minister and minister of state for economic affairs in 1989. After his election to this parliament in 1989 he served as chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee until he was reappointed foreign minister in January 1991.

Mr. Masri is married with two children. He graduated with a B.A. in business administration from North Texas State University in 1965. He served as ambassador to Spain, France and the United Kingdom in the 70s and

Some Jordanians were surprised by his choice as prime minister since it was widely believed that either Royal Court Chief Sharif Zeid Ben Shaker or former Prime Minister Ahmad Obeidat would be nominated for the job in light of persistent rumours and speculation that Mr. Badran submitted his resignation soon after the end of the Gulf

But, many Jordanian politicans and deputies expressed the opinion that Mr. Masri was a logical choice because of his background, experience and integrity.

"He is as experienced, intelligent and charismatic as any," said one deputy.

"He will make a good prime minister even in these most difficult circumstances that the country is passing through," the deputy added. "His government may not be acclaimed on the House floor but I am confident that he will have the majority he needs in any vote of confidence."

Kuwaiti trials spark outcry (Continued from page 1)

Husseini said. "If they (the Kuwaitis) go ahead with the death sentence, I will never rest until I avenge my brother's death," he added. Mr. Husseini, who was once jailed in the occupied territories by the Israelis, said that he expected such inhumane action from our "known not "from our Arab

Saud Al Husseini, another brother, said that the family tried getting an interview with the American ambassador to Jordan, but it was "easier to see the Lord himself than to see the American ambassador."

4 Rent & Sale

Many villas and apartment

are available for rent and

Also many lots of land are

For turther details, please cell

Estate

available for sale.

Tel. 810605, 810609,

nished.

- turnished or untur-

He said that all defendants were represented by one Kuwaiti lawver. ad Al Seif, a member of a Kuwaiti opposition group.
"These trials are a flagarant denial of justice, and are in severe violation of human rights," Omar Nabulsi, a prominent Jordanian lawyer, told the Jordan Times. "The due process of law was never observed in those

Mr. Nabulsi, a former minister of instice, said that the sentences were a "mockery of justice" and "a rude, blatant infringement of human rights Dr. Ahmad Abu Qoura, president

Society, said in a statement to the Jordan News Agency, Petra, that the sentences violated the basics of the Fourth Geneva Convention.

The provisions of the Fourth Geneva Convention call for the protection of individuals falling under the jurisdiction of a belligerent. The provi-sions forbid certain practices such as deportation of individuals or groups. regardless of motive, the taking of hostages, outrages upon personal dignity, torture, collective punishment and reprisals, the unjustified destruction of property, and discrimination in treatment on the basis of race, religion, nationality, or political grounds. It also calls for protecting foreign citizens living in a foreign country during armed conflicts and expatriates the right to leave their adopted homeland freely.

Mr. Abu Qoura also noted that Article 38 of the Fourth Geneva Convention provides for fair treatment of foreigners in peace time and lays down a rule that foreigners be treated on equal terms with the local residents. Article 71 of the convention also stipulates that foreign citizens facing charges in court should be allowed fair and just trials and that the International Committee of the Red Cross be notified and present at

Dr. Ghassan Al Judi, professor of international law at the University of Jordan, said that Jordanians and Palestinians were treated inhumanely by Kuwaiti authorities.

International law bans any forms torture against foreign citizens. Dr. Judi told Petra, "And this view is supported by Article five of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights adopted by the United Nations in 1975." he added. Sidestepping condemnation of Kuwait, United Nations Secretary General Javier Perez de Cuellar said that he did not have any "concrete" evidence of human rights violations of Jordanians and Palestinians there. I think the Kuwaiti government is making a great error. I think that the government returned to a country here the situation was chaotic and i is difficult to accuse it under such circumstances," Mr. Perez de Cuellar reported as saying to France's TF1 television channel. The Palestine National Council (PNC) issued a statement expressing deep pain and outrage over the death sentences passed by the Kuwaiti court and urging international organisa-tions to help put an end to the summary trials Sixteen PNC members signed the statement a copy of which was submitted to the Kuwaiti embassy in

Britain balks

(Continued from page 1)

Dutch officials said they too were reluctant to pull out their troops until the security situation

Some two million Kurds and Shiites fled into Turkey and Iran after Iraqi troops quelled rebellions after the Gulf war. Kurdish guerrillas fighting the

dad, saying they would only result in further tragedy for the bellions in the two countries.

(Continued from page 1)

ence, Mr. Habibi said that Iran would not force some one million Iraqi refugees to return home. But he said that Iran had "created the appropriate conditions ernment spokesman, reporting programme was peaceful.

BAG UP THE SAVINGS AND TAKE ADVANTAGE OF OUR SPECIAL OFFERS $60^{0}/_{0}$ Upon purchasing 25 J.D's worth or more. you immediately qualify to enter our sweepstakes, and may become the lucky. A 20"COLOURED TOSHIBA T.V. with remote control, in addition to other valuable prizes Draw date: June 23, 1991 SAFEWAY INTERNATIONAL PETRA CO FOR SUPPLY & INT'L TRADE

GRDANMARKETPLACE

STUDIO HAIG

Develop your colour film at

· JUMBO photo

* Free enlarge-

Shmeisani - Opp. Grindlays Bank. Phone: 604042

ment 20 x 30 cm

Professional Quality in

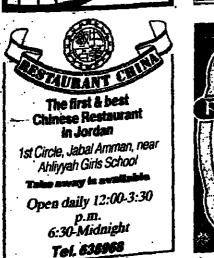

1 Hour Service

our shop and get:-

size 30% larger

Swefieh tel: 823891

specialities

Open daily 12:00 - 3:30

6:30 - Midnight

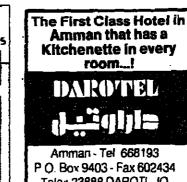

Tel:610948 Fax:612948

TIX: 27644 AUSTI JO.

FRESH PASTA

TOP QUALITY MEAT

FRESH SEA FOOD

Leonardo

Da Vinci

Restaurant

Howing since 1977

TRAL TOTAL

Edberg wins Queen Club title

LONDON (AP) — Stefan Edberg tuned up for his defense of the Wimbledon title by winning the $500,000 Queens blub Grass Court Tennis Tournament for the first time, beating American Davis Wheaton 6-2, 6-3, in Sunday's final.

The Swede underlined his ranking as world no. 1 by winning the title without dropping a set in five matches.

"This is the best I've ever played in the run-up to Wimble-don," Edberg said. "And it's more enjoyable going to Wimbledon after a good win like this."

Wimbledon beings June 24. The 6-foot-4 (1.93-metre) Wheaton was outgunned on his own serve. Six times in eight service games he had to survive break points. Three times he Wheaton, who needed courtside treatment for a strained hip muscle at 2-2 in the second set, praised Edberg's service return. That was the best part of his game," he said. 'I tried to vary my serve a lot, and do as many different things as possible, but he just seemed to read it."

Edberg joins a list of Queens Club champions including four-time titlist John McEnroe, Jimmy Connors, Boris Becker, Tim Mayotte and Ivan Lendl. In his only other appearance in the final he lost to Becker in 1988.

Navratilova defeats Zvereva to win title In Birmingham, Martina Navratilova defeated Natalia Zvereva

6-4, 7-6 (8-6) to win the $150,000 Edgbaston women's grass-court Tournament, regaining the title she captured in 1989. The victory was the top-seeded

Navratilova's 155th tournament title, two short of Chris Evert's all-time WTA record, and worth "I should break the record if I stay healthy," said Navratilova, who didn't lose a set all week. "I wanted match play, which I got, and I'm healthy and I'm not tired. If I can come through Eastbourne without pulling anything I'm ready for Wimbledon.

Navratilova is the top seed for the Eastbourne tournament, another Wimbledon prep, scheduled to start Monday. Sunday's result did not surprise

Zvereva "I might beat her on grass when she's 60 years old," said the 20-year-old Soviet. "I'm sure I'll never beat her before then. I was out there wondering why she wasn't winning 6-2, 6-2."

Despite her lack of confidence, Zvereva made the 34-year-old Navratilova work hard. She broke the reigning Wimbledon champion's serve twice in the second set and was a break point up in the tie-breaker.

But Navratilova, who skipped the Edgbaston tournament last year, clinched victory or her second match point when Zvereva hit a forehand return of serve into the net after 88 minutes

Both women had to play semifinals earlier in the day because of rain Saturday.

Navratilova won hers in 57 minutes against Brenda Schultz of the Netherlands 6-3, 6-2, while Zvereva upset second seed and defending champion Zina Garrison, 2-6, 7-6 (7-4), 8-6.

Italy wins Scandia soccer Cup

STOCKHOLM. Sweden (AP) -Giuseppe Giannini tied the game two minutes before half and Alexander Mostovoy sent the last of the Soviets' penalty kicks wide Sunday, giving Italy a penalty shootout victory over the Soviet Union to win the Scandia Cup.
The victory was some sort of relief for Coach Azeglio Vicini, who was bitterly criticised after Norway upset Italy in a European Championship qualifier June 5. It has been rumoured that Sunday's match would be his last as head of the Italian team.

The Norwegian part-timers beat Italy 2-1 in Oslo, only the second loss in 19 games since October 1989 for Italy.

"I'm quite pleased with the first 90 minutes." Vicini said. "During extra time neither team played well. Both were tired. Overall, I don't think we played so much better than the Soviets. but the penalty kicks decided it."

The two European rivals were forced into the shootout after finishing the 90 minutes of regulation and then 30 minutes of extra time tied 1-1.

The penalty shootout was decided in the fifth round with the Italians ahead 4-3. Mostovoy, needing to score against goalkeeper Gianluca Pagliuca, who, had replaced Walter Zenga at halftime, shot wide.

The Soviets, who needed extra time to edge host Sweden 3-2 in the semifinals earlier in the week, took the lead in opening minute when Igor Korneev surprised Zenga with a left-foot drive from the edge of the penalty area. Italy, which finished third in last year's world cup, tied it when Roberto Mancini lobbed a free kick over a Soviet defender and Giannini, left unmarked inside the area, blasted a left-foot shot past Cherchesov.

Both teams had plenty of chances the rest of the way in a wide-open, entertaining game before 8,072 fans at Rasunda sta-

The Soviet Union and Norway lead Italy by one point in European Championship qualification group 3, but the Soviets have played one less game. Only the group winner will advance to next summer's eight-team finals. Italy faces the Soviets in Mos-

"But this match doesn't mean so much. There are still four months to go before Moscow and a lot can happen," Vicini said.
"We could very well have several changes in the lineup.

But Gianluigi Lentini is expected to stay. The 22-year-old Torino rookie, who had only played 20 minutes on the national team as a substitute before this tournament, again impressed in midfield and was the star of the

The victory was worth $160,000 for Italy, which beat Denmark 2-0 after extra time in the other semifinal.

The tournament served as a rehearsal for next year's European championship finals in

VIRGO: (August 22 to September

HOROSCOPE

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY JUNE 18, 1991 By Thomas S. Pierson, Astrologer, Carroll Righter Foundation

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Working steadily and conscien-tiously toward gaining your long range objectives pays big divideads today. Take some time out to soothe the ruffled feelings of an old ARTES: (March 21 to April 19) Think out the type of work that you have to do with members of your own household and then plan in detail just how they can be carried out most effectively.

TAURUS: (April 20 to May 20) Now you can have a very happy time at the pleasures of your choice which are greatly increased if you will but make a point to give

GEMINI: (May 21 to June 21) Whatever you have in mind that does mean getting more money in the bank or in your holdings is very good but be sure you do get family's ideas.

MOON CHILDREN: (June 22 to July 21) You are able to see and understand better what others expect of yuo but at the same time do not change your desires but combine the two.

LEO: (July 22 to August 21) Behind the scenes activities of all sorts are fine for you since you like worldly acclaim but need to prepare for it so it comes to you in larger

22) This is your time to ask questions just what your friends are willing to do to give you the benefit of their backing and their particuFiria

435

12/2/2/2/2/2

LIBRA: (September 23 to October 22) Out in the world of action and let all about see and realise that you are the one who does value and appreciate the advantages you have as a citizen. SCORPIO: (October 23 to November 21) So many new outlets are about to be yours that you would be wise to carefully note what they are and to prepare yourself for them by studying. SAGIITARIUS: (November 22 to December 21) Take that time out to let most everyone understand that you are the one who does not besitate to carry through with promises you have made. CAPRICORN: (December 22 to January 20). A pretty emotional and sensitive partner is now willing to come to terms with you if you will but accept their version of some mutual interest.

AQUARIUS: (January 21 to February 19) Study to show others you are the one who does whatever has been promised by you in any pro-ject and you will earn their respect and trust

PISCES: (February 20 to March 20) You can have some happy moments during the daytime so us those soure mo persons you like, do the things that appeal to you.

SPORTS NEWS IN BRIEF

Syria defeats Uruguay 1-0 in surprise win

LISBON, Portugal (AP) - Mounaf Ramadan scored on a well-placed header in the 57th minute Sunday, giving Syria a 1-0 victory over Uruguay and the second biggest upset of the three-day old world youth soccer championship. In Sunday's other game, the Soviet Union got an early goal and then hung on to beat Egypt 1-0. Syria appeared to be the better team against Uruguay at Faro, creating several more scoring opportunities and taking control after Ramadan's second-half goal. It's victory matched Korea's heroics Saturday, when its united team stunned Argentina 1-0. The Soviet Union dominated the opening part of its group C game against Egypt at Guimaraes and took the lead in the fourth minute when striker Sergei Cherbakov scored off a cross from the right side. However, Egypt recovered quickly and striker Ibrahim El Masry and midfielder Mostafa Sadek missed several good scoring opportunities. Egypt moved well on fast counterattacks but appeared to often lose confidence as it approached the Soviet penalty area.

Red Star Belgrade wins 10th title

BELGRADE (R) — European Cup winners Red Star Belgrade completed their 10th Yugoslav soccer title success Sunday. Red Star beat Sloboda Tuzla 4-0 to take the championship with an eight point margin over Dinamo Zagreb. The Belgrade team dominated the league from the start and won 25 of 36 ties played. losing only five. They scored record 80 goals and collected record-equalling 59 points. Red Star striker Darks Pancev scored 34 goals, setting another Yugoslav record.

Omani cyclist sets out on friendship tour

NICOSIA (R) - An Omani cyclist Monday arrived on the sultanate's border with the United Arab Emirates on the first leg of a five month triendship tour of 17 Arab and Europ countries, Oman's news agency reported. It quoted Abdul Ghani Al Zadjali as saying the "tour of friendship among people, would end in Italy Nov. 12. He would return home by air five days later." He said that during his tour he would organise a mobile mini fair containing books and video films about the sultanate's history and traditional Omani costumes. In addition to the UAE and Italy, the trip will take him to Qatar, Saudi Arabia, Bahrain, Jordan, Egypt, Libya, Tunisia, Algeria, Morocco, Spain, France, Britain, Belgium, Germany and Switzerland.

YOU STUPID KID! GATSBY

ISN'T IN THE BIBLE!

BRINGING HIM UP ?!

WHY DO YOU KEEP

Peanuts

Andy Capp

Mutt'n'Jeff

"D' IN SPELLING.

C MAR ISSUE NICHMANDER LTD

DON'T I KNOW

SOMEWHERE S

QUIT KIDDIN

POP! YOU KNOW

I'M STILL AN

ON YOUR INCOME TAX

Patrese wins thrilling Mexico Grand Prix

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Ricardo Patrese outdueled Williams Renault teammate Nigel Mansell on Sunday to win the Mexican Grand Prix auto race.

Patrese, who started from the pole, battled throughout with Mansell, who started alongside the Italian in the front row. Patrese took the lead on the 15th lasp was ahead thereafter. although he was never free on Ayrton Senna of Brazil, the leader in the season points chase. also matched his starting position by finishing third. It was the second defeat in a row for Senna's McLaren-Honda, which dominated earlier in the season by winning the first four races of the year.

It was Williams Renault's first one-two win since the Canadian Grand Prix in 1989 and vaulted the lead in points. Mansell moved up from fifth to fourth spot, behind Brazilian Nelson Piquet. Patrese averaged 122,489 mph (197.757 kph) from 67 laps of the 2.747-mile (4.395-kilometre) circuit. finishing 1.336 seconds ahead of Mansell. Mansell tried to pass Patrese just before the home stretch, but was unable to get by.

"At first I had a problem con-trolling my tires," said Patrese, whose engine also had some heating problems. "But I could get back my position quite quickly as the car really worked fantastically well today.

"I got in front of Nigel and then pushed very hard in the middle of the race to create a gap that could give me a little of stability ... Nigel was pushing very, very hard and it was difficult to keep him behind." he added.

Patrese also praised the team, saying: "We proved today that

Patrese from sixth to the second we are really very strong. spot after Senna, who still holds IOC admits Namibia into Olympic movement

BIRMINGHAM, England (AP) exceptional case. — The International Olympic Committee Sunga African Nation of Namibia into the Olympic movement. Namibia, formerly known as south-west Africa, gained independence in March, 1990, after some 40 years of control by South

On the final day of its 97th session, the IOC said it decided to recognise the National Olympic Committee of Namibia as "an

HE DID NOT!

YOU'RE ALL

CONFUSED!

You're Ruininc

SOMETHING ELSEIL COME

IF YOU DON'T SELT UP

MY CLASS!

GATSBY HAD A MANSION

IN JERICHO, AND HE

USED TO THROW GREAT

NO, NO, DON'T TELL

ME IN A MINUTE

THIS NOTE SAYS AW, SHE YOU HAVENT GIVEN ALWAYS ONE CORRECT KISSES

THE RIGHT ANSWER!

TEACHER IN A MONTH!

BIG PARTIES ..

Previously, the IOC had agreed not to consider accepting any new members until 1993.

Applications from others seeking recognition, including the British Colony of Gibraltar and the Spanish region of Catalonia, were put on hold.

The decision clears the way for Namibia to send a team to the 1992 summer games in Barcelo-

CAN ASSUME HE GOT BEATEN

CHIN UP!

CARRY ON, M BOY!

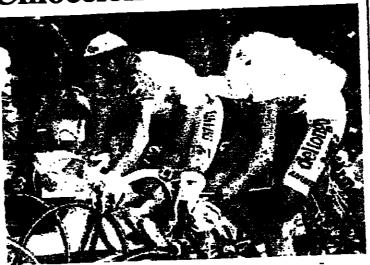

YOU'RE NOT VERY NICE.

ARE YOU ON SOME KIND

OF MEDICATION?

TOUR OF ITALY

Chioccioli takes Giro

American Lemond (left) with Italian Chioccioli

MILAN, Italy (AP) - Franco Chioccioli, known as "Coppino" for his resemblance to the Italian great "campionissimo" Fausto Coppi, finally has something to support his nickname.

On Sunday he captured by nearly four minutes the Giro D'Italia. Italy's most prestigious cycling marathon which Coppi won five times from 1940 to 1953.

"I am proud of being compared to Coppi, but I am simply Chioccioli." the Giro winner said following the last stage in Milan.

Chioccioli, an unheralded 31year-old from the Tuscan region who was ignored among the lists of pre-race favourites, fought off strong international competition for his first victory in the 21-stage event, which three-time Tour De France winner Greg Lemond says has become as tough as the prestigious French race. The shy, frail Italian — he is 1.82 metres (5-foot-11) tall but weighs only 60 kilogrammes (132 pounds) - stunned rivals, experts, teammames and even himself with strong performances in flat, mountainous stages and even in the individual time trials, his weakest segment of racing. "Don't ask me what has hap-pened. I am asking myself too," Chioccioli said after Saturday's 52-second victory in an individual time trial, which gave him a 3:48 lead and virtually the title. "I can only say it's a fantastic, unbelievable experience."

Chioccioli wore the pink jersey, symbol of the overall leadership, for 19 stages out of 21, won three stages and ended the three-week competition with an impressive margin of 3:48 over runner-up Claudio Chiappucci of Last year's winner Gianni Bugno finished more than seven minutes behind.

"He surprised all of us. But he proved the strongest and deserved victory," Bugno said. Chioccioli's victory came in a year that Italians swept the top four places, with Chiappucci finishing second, Massimiliano Lelli third and Bugno fourth, the first time that has happened since

Chioccioli, the youngest of eight in a family of farmers from Pian Di Sco, near Arezzo, will not give his rivals a chance to dethrone immediately, saying he will skip the Tour De France next month. "Now I am only dreaming some rest and peace at home, Chioccioli said.

GOREN BRIDGE

WITH OMAR SHARIF & TANNAH HIRSCH

Neither vulnerable. East deals. NORTH

♣ Void 7 A J 6

CHEAP, BUT DEADLY

A Q J 4 3 EAST AKJ98762 KQ 10 7 3 Void 75 4 Void SOUTH ♦53 The bidding: East South West 3 NT Pass 6 0 7 0 Pass
5 O
Pass Pass
Pass
Pass 2 NT Pass Pass 6 © Dbl

Pass Pass Pass Pass
Opening lead: Four of 2
What is the cheapest card you have seen win a defensive trick on the fourth round of a suit with both opponents following? As far as we're concerned, that bonor belongs to Boris Koytchou, who has represented both France and the U.S. in international competition, on this hand from a rubber bridge game played some years ago at New York's Regency Whist Club.

Pass

A demand bid of two spe would not be our choice on the East hand—we would opt for one spade, or even six spades if you like. While the hand has more than enough playing tricks, it has virtually no defense! North's three no trump was unusual, asking for the minors, and a very competitive auction came to an end with South declaring seven diamonds doubled.

West led a low spade, ruffed in dummy. Since West had raised hearts rather than spades, East's first suit, and since East surely had five hearts to introduce the suit at the five-level, it wasn't difficult for declarer to place West with three spaces and four hearts, which gave East 13 cards in the major suits and none in the minors.

Since the hand was an open book since the hand was an open book, declarer drew two rounds of trumps ending in hand, then tried to sneak through a low club by leading the six. Most defenders would lazily have followed suit with the five, allowing declarer to you the six but have tollowed sun with the live, at-lowing declarer to run the six, but not Koytchou. He covered with the seven and dummy's jack won. De-clarer came to hand with a heart ruff and tried the eight of clubs, covered by the ten and won by the queen.
Another heart ruff allowed declarer to lead the nine of clubs, covered by the king and ace. When declarer now led dummy's three of clubs to his deuce. West won the five for a one-trick set. Never underestimate the power of spot cards!

By Harris THE BETTER HALF, HARRIS 9-13 "I must be getting old. I've stopped dreaming about Kim Basinger and started dreaming about bran."

Answer: The pet lover was smitten - - - BY A KITTEN

THE Daily Crossword by Virginia L Yotes

JUMBLE THAT SCRAMBLED WORD GAME
by Henri Arnold and Bob Lee

am !!"
18 Standard
20 Bring up
22 Say again
23 in what way
24 Hi-fi feature
25 Bowl over 29 Swirled
33 Breakfast and

1 Guiliver's creator 6 Plucky 10 — over (discuss) 14 Cree craft

15 As soon as

am !!"

tournaments
37 Flaw
38 Make crook
39 Extensive
40 Stable mate
41 Participial

41 Participial
ending 42 Furniyman
43 Agrees to terms
44 Overly arty
46 Unlucky
48 Formerly formerly 50 Dander
51 Tuck ewey out. of soft

58 Completely
60 Thin tabric 61 Start from scratch agal
62 Bump
63 Curves
64 — Rebbit
65 Shot up

DOWN
1 Fraudulent scheme
2 Engage in 3 A part of 4 Secure pos
5 Humdrum
6 Netl —

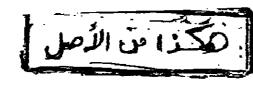

faction 13 God's kin 13 God's kin
19 Ships
21 Have title to 25 Circuit
26 "— evil..."
27 Balkroom danc
28 Campus bidg.
30 Counterpart
31 Takes home
32 Get-up
35 Oahu food
36 Aolece

36 Apleca 39 Buoying up 40 Notable po

47 Bother 49 Drift 51 Monter

55 Gallieo's 56 Energy source: abbr. 57 Escritoire 59 Alphabet run

Yesterday's Puzzle Solved

Financial Markets

U)

f the non, iliner uring ation

h the mere ted as ration camps seed a in line

At the

itity of

e said

er and

≇ Only

IT as

We are

Out the alleged ud Sun is kept ior Shin

ote that n taken.

news in es might

the Shin

he paper

er orders

Press for to all the

r. Shamir

ter senior ty thrown

said Mr.

ossad spy

party, As

Shin Bet.

ard a Pan

uer a brief

≠ting under postponed

ndopoulos

i two week

ing of a Pan wounded 15

organise the

b. The brief

top security

the wimess

.000 mines in the emirate

203V. A navy alliance had has given the

ines laid by its

the Shatt Al

inehunters - ods and the

elgian support wy said.

cation

ers returned to is invasion o

faily to publish er is Al Fajr Al

broadsheet Al

it censorship of entral bank and

ir seven-month

es offices, press

1), a daily which gan on January

tenced to death

by Kuwait to uy

with the tradi

final agreemen

ilion dollar loan

oreign Ministry

ani. Spokesman

Iranian Deputy

rench deplomat,

hing touches to

they were due to

zi's visit follows

een Mr. Rafsan

France has paid

maining obstacles

ts (Terminal 2)

Bucharesi (RO)

ET PRICES

ng

n co-operation with Cairo Amman Bank

1.1420

V.S. Dollar in international N
Carrency	How york Olese Date 14 o 91	Tekyo Clese Darl7 p 41
Sterling Pound	1.0329	1,6305
Deutsche Mark	1.7950	1.7955
Swiss Franc	1.5388	1.5593
French Franc	6.0985	6.1100
Japanese Yeu	140.71	112 03

European Curreny Unit

Eurocurrency Interest R	rtes		Date:	17 6 199
Сигтенсу	1 MTH	3 MTHS	6 MTHS	12 MTRS
U.S. Dollar	.0.00	6.15	e.3;	0,51
Sterling Pound	11.31	11.06	10.51	10.08
Deutsche Mark	8.75	6.57	4.76	9.12
Swiss Franc	7.87	7.57	7.51	7.68
French Franc	9.60	4.6?	9.02	9.62
Japanese Ven	7.67	7.57	7.28	7.50
European Currency Unit	9.5i	9.51	9,98	9.93

USD/Oz JD:Gm Metal USD Oz JD/Gm 7.00

Date: 17/6/1991

Currency	Bid	Offer
U.S. Dollar	.060	.085
Sterling Pound	1,1160	1.1216
Deutsche Mark	. 3812	.3831
Swiss Franc	. 4443	.4465
French Franc	.1122	.1128
Japanese Yen*	.4864	.4686
Dutch Guilder	.3384	.3401
Swedish Krona	.1055	.1060
Italian Lira*	.0512	.0515
Belgian Franc	.01861	.01870

Other Currencies	Date: 17/6/1991
Сигтепсу	Bid	Offer
Bahraini Dinar	1.7900	1.8200
Lebanese Lira*	.0745	.0765
Sandi Riyal	.1620	.1830
Kuwaiti Dinar	-	T
Qatari Riyal	.1850	.1860
Egyptian Pound	.1950	.2150
Oznani Riyal	1.7500	1.7700
UAE Dirham	.1850	.1860
Greek Drachma*	.3410	.3600
Cyprict Pound	1.3850	1.4750

Index	15/6/1991 Close	16/6/1991 Clos
All-Share	112.04	112.54
Banking Sector	107.94	108.57
Insurance Sector	114.86	114.31
Industry Sector	115.73	116.14
Services Sector	130.02	130.34

By Reuters

TOKYO - Stocks finished lower on profit-taking following rallies on Thursday and Friday related to futures expiry and not based on fundamentals. The Nikkei average was down 150.80 points or

SYDNEY - The Australian share market was pushed sharply higher by strong support from offshore and local investors. The

HONG KONG -- Market closed Monday and Tuesday for

SINGAPORE - Share prices closed slightly mixed after selective

CONCORD

0.60 per cent to 24,943.09, with 220 million shares traded.

All Ordinaries closed at 1,520.3, up 16.5 points.

Cinema

Madonna & Warren Betty

DICK TRACY

Show: 12:30, 3:30, 6:30, 8:30, 10:30, p.m.

U.S. Eximbank grants $50m credit to Kuwait

WASHINGTON (USIA) - The Export-Import Bank (Eximbank) has granted the Foreign Credit Insurance Association (FCIA) authority to issue $50 million for short-term export credit insurance covering obligations of the Kuwait Petroleum Corporation (KPC).

The special delegated authority allows the FCIA to meet increasing demand from U.S. exporters for repayment risk protection on credit sales to KPC with payment terms up to a maximum of 360 days. FCIA has applications from a number of companies, including General Motors, Oshkosh Trucks, and Ingersoll-Rand, that are exporting U.S. equipment related to the emergency phase of the restoration of Kuwait's oil sector.

The KPC, headquartered in Safat, Kuwait, is the state-owned umbrella corporation which controls all aspects of Kuwait's pet-

Eximbank is the U.S. government agency which helps the American business community finance their foreign sales. Through a variety of loan, guarantee and insurance programmes, Eximbank helps U.S. exporters compete in the global market-place on the basis of price, performance and delivery.

United Gulf Bank blames $34 million loss on war

MANAMA, Bahrain (R) — The Bahrain-based United Gulf Bank blamed the Gulf war for a $34.033 million loss in 1990 compared with a net profit of $10.566 million the previous year.

"The flight of capital from the area in the initial weeks was sharp and sudden. The level of outflow of private sector deposits is estimated to have reached as high as 30 per cent," the bank said in its

It said while some deposits had returned to the region, the six-week war in January and February," added more uncertainty to the geopolitical and economic outlook of the area." 'The war will have a devastating impact on the economies of the Gulf countries in addition to catastrophic ecological destruction," the bank, a joint stock company, said. Total assets at the end of 1990 dropped 10 per cent to 207.4 million from $230.7 million a year ago.

The bank said it set aside $26 million for doubtful loans in 1990 compared with $11.8 million in 1989.

The Kuwait Investment Project Company holds about 96 per cent

East Bloc reform makes data worse

start to reform. In some cases, hardly anyone knows what's happening - and those who do refuse to say on principle.

"Ask the new private com-panies about their business and they say 'go to hell with your questions - we're not a comnunist state anymore," said Mr. Yves Franchet, director general of the Enropean Community's statistics organisation, Eurostat.

Mr. Franchet described the problem of satisfying the growing demand for reliable information conference to release a volume of comparative statistics on the re-Advising readers to treat its contents with a grain of salt, Mr. Franchet said the rapid decentralisation of economic responsibilities made it hard to keep track of information.

"The Soviet Union used to have five international trading companies. Now it has 3,000 and they have no idea how to measure foreign trade," he said.

rose 14.40 points to 1,307.21.

the intraday high of 1,1718.21.

Show: 30:30, 6:30, 8:30 p.m.

The country report "Central and Eastern Europe 1991," compiled and jointly released by Germany's Federal Statistical Office, gives information on everything

WORLD STOCK MARKETS

BRUSSELS (R) - Bad statistics from health to transport, prices. often get worse instead of better and population on the Soviet when east European countries Union, Bulgaria, Poland, Romania, Czechoslovakia and Hun-

> Mr. Franchet said the task of improving east European statistics was a long-term exercise, as attitudes and techniques both had

Information on prices was the most suspect of all statistics in eastern Europe, with industrial production figures not far behind, due to the communist "mythology" that factory output was the key to economic success.

Mr. Franchet said that in the old days factories sometimes included rejects as part of total production to swell output figures, which Mr. Egon Hoelder, resident of the German Statistic-foreign debt, one of the largest in al Office, gave the example of lumping in house repairs among new house building statistics.

The new volume showed falling annual average population growth rates in all six countries when 1986-2000 was compared with the period 1965-1980.

For example, Bulgaria's population growth rate was likely to fall from 0.5 per cent to 0.2 per cent, while Hungary's population would actually fall by 0.1 per cent annually against a 0.4 per cent yearly rise in the earlier period.

Tel: 634144

Tel: 625155

buying interest alternated with light profit-taking. The Straits

BOMBAY — Prices rallied on expectations that the Congress

Party would form the next government despite falling short of a majority in recent elections. The Bombay Stock Exchange index

FRANKFURT - A rally in car shares lifted German stock prices at the start of trading but profit taking eroded most earlier gains.

The DAX index closed 1.24 points higher at 1,701.07, well below

ZURICH — Shares closed slightly higher in moderate trading. The SPI index rose 4.9 to 1,117.7.

PHILADELPHIA

PRETTY WOMAN

Times Industrial index ended up 6.58 at 1,534.00

Lack of funding hampers growth prospects of Saudi private sector

lenders is hampering growth prospects of Saudi Arabia's privately-owned industry anxious to break the virtual monopoly of state-run firms, according to bankers and economists.

"Saudi private sector business achievement is based on very few big business houses. But banks are not confident they will get their money back from many projects which are put forward," said one independent economist.

"The Saudi industrial sector is not noted for its efficiency," he noted.

Unless the government and lenders can act to adjust the imbalance between the statefunded and private industries, the government would remain the sole funding agency to the economy, the sources said.

"There is just a shortage of good quality, even medium quality lending opportunities. So there is such big competition for what does come up that downward pressure on (profit) margins be-bted Indonesia, which this month

hopes for record new aid pledges from the West and Japan, has given warning it could face a debt crisis of Latin American proportions if its banks do not curb their

'We want to avoid cases like in Latin America (where the world

Finance Minister Johannes

Sumarlin told Reuters in a tele-

He urged state banks to sto p foreign borrowing and private banks to be more prudent.

though he did not issue any new

"I think my appeal (to stop for the time being) will be enough.'

A resumption in borrowing would depend on the market, he

Foreign borrowing by the private sectors, including state banks, in the fiscal year to last

March jumped 46 per cent or $7 billion, according to the Interna-

half the amount was raised by Private loans account for about a third of Indonesia's $66 billion shattered economy could be rescued by the immediate return of gold and other treasure carried off to the Soviet Union 74 years ago, National Bank Governor

The country's entire treasury.

valued at $38 billion at current prices according to local press reports, was moved for safekeeping to Moscow in December 1916

when Romania was threatened

Mugur Isarescu has said.

with a German invasion.

the developing world.

tional Monetary Fund (IMF).

state banks.

debt crisis started in the 1980s)."

appente for foreign loans.

phone interview.

This allows established companies, such as state-backed Saudi Basic Industries Company (SABIC), to command razor sharp margins on their borrowings never offered by banks outside the kingdom, bankers said.

"SABIC can get 1/4 per cent over LIBOR (London Inter-Bank Offered Rate) for its loans. That's even better than the government can get on the international market," said another banker.

The Saudi government last month signed a $4.5 billion loan at h of a point over LIBOR, the rate banks charge each other for working funds.

The result of the squeeze on profits and lack of other lending opportunities is a long-term haemorrhage of potential investment capital out of Saudi Arabia and into international investments, according to commercial

Saudi Arabian Monetary Agency figures show that the

a large extent sparked by high interest rates at home, has overcrowded already tight international markets and sharply raised the costs for Indonesian bor-

Jakarta has always been adamant it would not reschedule its debts, many of them raised in the early 1980s when prices for its oil were high, and has tried to 1e-

mould its economy to make it more efficient to generate enough money for development and to than last year's record figure.

Mr. Sumarlin's statement.

nomist immediately welcomed

"It's quite something, it's a good decision," he said. Like several others he has been telling the government to clamp down controls has made tough to con-

Mr. Sumarlin declined to say sparked by Indonesia's worsening

Top Romanian banker sees rescue in treasure in Moscow

teed by Britain, France, Italy and Japan despite the dissenting voices of a minority of Romanian dicted the collapse of the Tsarist

After the Russian revolution in October 1917, Moscow retained the treasure, apparently on the grounds that it belonged to the Romanian people and not to the

During the inter-war period

Russian empire.

National Bank.

National Bank directors who pre-

Its efforts have made it one of pay off the loans.

domestic credit to deposits fell to 50 per cent in 1989 from 59 per cent in 1980.

But the ratio of their foreign assets to deposits rose to 81 per cent from 60 per cent over the same period.

This is exactly the opposite direction from the trend the government needs if it is to encourage the private sector to take up some of the burden for growth. the economists said.

The need to use more of the private sector capital is puticularly important when the government has to pay off up to $60 billion in unexpected costs resulting from the Gulf war, they

The bankers say unhappy memories of the many corporate bankruptcies during the mid-1980s oil price collapse, legal problems with assuring loan repayments, and unacceptable business plans are all to blame.

The legal status of lenders under the Saudi Islamic law. which condemns all interest rates cide," he said.

resolved, bankers said, The economists say the gay ment may have to step in 10 h lenders and borrowers el For example, the Saudi Ind rial Development Fund (SII which is the single most im tant channel of funds to pri sector projects, may concent on encouraging better plans design, and marketing as we putting up initial capital, SIDF typically funds 50 cent of an accepted project the owner putting in 25 per of his own money and come cial banks coming in with the SIDF funds are extremely ch But SIDF has a limit of million rivals ($27 million) funding to anyone project. one economist. "If you war develop industry you need vate sector factories on a scale. Some firms want to de but they are coming up age the limit," he added. Italy releases

Indonesia tells banks to slow first block down their foreign borrowing of mega-cred for Algeria

.1990/91 from $2 billion the pre-ALGIRES (R) — Italy has githe go-ahead to release the part of $7.2 billion credit Algeria, earmarked in May "I leave that for you to de-In March Indonesia's trade bafore violent unrest in the N than two years. "It's really significant and quite worrisome," the economist said of the deficit.

lance turned into a deficit of $134.5 million, the first in more

IMF says grew to $4.5 billion in Another said a continued worsening of the trade balance. coupled with the growing foreign debt, might force Indonesia to the golden boys of the developing world and the World Bank has The trade balance has been recommended donors pledge $4.6 hurt by hight imports of capital billion in fresh aid, slightly more goods to meet needs to promote exports, which in turn have been One leading Indonesian eco-slowed by the world economic downturn. But several analysts said some large projects by politically wellconnected local businessmen may be causing some of the damage on foreign borrowing which a since they can often raise banks. "All the big projects get financed through state banks which whether the move had been borrow heavily abroad... the main funding is not through martrade position and ballooning cur- ket forces," one analyst said.

Romania made three abortive bids to recover the treasure, which also included foreign currency reserves in a variety of pre-World

War I European currencies, crown jewels and valuable artistic gold ingots, $1.5 billion, would make a good starting point for the transition to a market economy," Mr. Isarescu told Reu-

Gold is currently worth around

"The return of 100 tonnes of and religious objects.

$357 an ounce.

African country, the Algenews agency APS said.

APS said Italy's export of department SACE gave the grain light for guaranteed credit to ing $2.4 billion, with a guara of a later short-term credit ment of $300 million. Last Thursday, SACE

Mr. Roberto Ruberti, Said Italian government had prom Algeria it would get the me whatever the outcome of party general elections.

An Italian emdassy statem An Italian emussy statem quoted by APS, said the go at had not been delayed by political situation in Algeria by the complexity of proced applying the agreement w was the most important signed between countries Mediterranean.

Italy announced the credit on May 2 and promised to vide 100 per cent guarantees said it was up to Italian com cial banks to agree on Spe lending projects and work interest rates and the lengt the loans.

King Fahd approves $17m logi to Egypt

NICOSIA (R) — Saudi Arak King Fahd has approved a million riyal ($17 million) lea Egypt for a highway prejec the Saudi Development Fi the official Saudi Press Ag (SPA) said Monday. Earlier this year the fund Cairo 207 million riyals ($55

SEMI-VILLA FOR RENT-A- Furnished 3-bedroom house. First floor, part of a villa, central heated. Private entrance and telephone with garden &

B- Furnished one bedroom apt. First floor, part of a villa. Private entrance and telephone with garden. Location: In a very quite area Al Shmeisani

For more inf. call Shahatit from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. tel. 642021 and from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. tel. 665595.

FOR RENT

House semi villa with front and back terrace - Jabal

For info. day 622555; night 652229

ANNOUNCEMENT FROM THE MINISTRY OF WATER AND IRRIGATION /WATER AUTHORITY INVITATION FOR BID NO. L 20/91

The Water Authority announces the issuance of the above mentioned Bid for the Supply of Two Deep Drilling Rigs. Suppliers registered at the Ministry of Trade and Industry, who are interested in the participation of the bid, may inspect and purchase the tender documents from the Tender Division at Water Authority's main office in Amman. A complete set of the tender documents may be purchased against the payment of a non-refundable fee of JD 300.

All bids must be accompanied by a bank guarantee of JD 125,000 and must be delivered to the Water Authority. not later than 12:00 hours on Saturday 20/7/1991.

Eng. Mutazz Belbeisi Secretary General Water Authority

He said he was running the Cairo 207 million riyals ($55 National Salvation Front (NSF) DUTY UNPAID CAR FOR SALE

CHEVROLET (Blazer), 1986 model, in excellent conditie all American cars accessories, 6 cylinders, baby male automatic, airconditioned, electric windows, power stee

For details please call tel. 63579

VILLA FOR RENT

Good location in Shmeisani. Complete privacy. Co storey building, area 320m (Street in Juliana 21/2 bathrooms, lounge, dining, two family rooms, clous kitchen, wall to wall carpets, built-in closets, with the street talephone parking and parking a paper, central heating, telephone, parking and garde Furnishing possible and negotiable

Interested expatriates please call landlord 6 911211 ext. 2805 between 5 p.m. and 9 p.m.

If you are a painter... extend your horizons! If you are a film-maker... widen them !!

And if only a film buff, come and feast !!! The art of film at the Goethe Institut: Avant Garde Films of the 1920s Every bit as fascinating as any feature film of today

PERFORMANCES

Wednesday 19/6/91 Thursday 20/6/91 Entrance free at 7:00 p.m.

Show; 3:30, 6:15, 8:30, 10:30 p.m. Show: 12:30, 3:30, 6:15, 8:30, 10:30. Tel: 675571 Cinema Rainbow MUOUM Ahmad Zaki & Hala Sudki in ROOF TOPS THE ESCAPE (Arabic)

South African parliament repeals segregation law

ca (AP) - Parliament ended the racial classification of citizens Monday, abolishing the last major apartheid law in an overwhelmingly vote.

The repeal of the population registration act is seen a milestone in the dismantling of apartheid. But the action did not address the biggest race reform still confronting South Africa: Negotiating a new constitution that will give blacks the vote.

The population registration act of 1950 has been the foundation of virtually all apartheid measures and caused "discriminatory numiliation and heartsore. Home Affairs Minister Gene Louw said during last week's parliamentary debate in Cape

"The repeal of the act ... is a momentous occasion." The Citizen, a pro-government daily, said in an editorial Monday. "The act determined the place in South African society of all its people. from the cradle to the grave.

Racial classification determined where a person could live. which schools one could attend, which public toilets one could use

BONN, Germany (AP) - Germany and Poland Monday signed a historic friendship and non-aggression treaty that aims to clear away ill feelings that have persisted in the 46 years since the tof Bielecki signed the landmark

The treaty on good neighhourliness and friendly cooperation" sets guidelines for intensified economic, cultural and poli-

The document states that the two nations will "strive toward concluding ... the past's sorrowful chapter" and to "convert into reality their peoples' wish for long-lasting understanding and

SEOUL (R) - South Korean

President Roh Tae-Woo told his cabine: Monday to prepare the way for unification with communist North Korea, saying the division of the Korean peninsula would not last deyond this cen-

There is a possibility that the Korean peninsula will be unified in the middle of the 1990s, and I believe the division will not last beyond this century," a government spokesman quoted Roh as for unification has been successfully constructed. Now is the time for us to lay the foundation at home as early as possible," Roh

Rob ordered the cabinet to study German unification last year to help them formulate poli-

Joong told the cabinet meeting that it would be difficult for the two Koreas to achieve unification of tensions and confrontations between the South and North been exchanges and cooperation in the past 40 years in Germany.

Despite this, the unified Germany now faces serious problems in overcoming differences between the people in the east and improving ties with North Korea and its communist allies since he took office in February 1988.

Roh has placed high priority on Roll has repeatedly offered to

There has been a continuation

"On the other hand, there had

Unification minister Choi Ho

"Internationally, a foundation telling a cabinet meeting.

was quoted as saying.

cies for a united Korea.

as Germany did.

Korea," Choi said.

west," Choi said.

Chancellor Helmut Koh! and

sh Prime Minister Jan Krzyszend of World War II.

pact at the chancellery.

tical relations.

and which cemeteries one was

The only party in the tricameral parliament to vote against repeal of the act was the proapartheid conservative party, the official opposition in the white chamber of parliament.

Parliament approved a replacement measure that ends all new race classifications and removes race references that remained in other laws. But people already racially classified will remain so until a new non-racial constitution is negotiated.

The repeal of the population registration act is likely to bring a further easing of foreign sanc-tions, which have been steadily crumbling over the past year in esponse to de Klerk's reforms.

De Klerk was to address parliament after the voting, and was expected to reitrate his readiness to begin black-white talks on a new constitution that will give the 30 million blacks equal voting

But the African National Congress and other anti-apartheid groups say the government must free all political prisoners and do

Germany, Poland sign

historic friendship treaty

Many Poles still have painful memories of Adolf Hitler's 1939

invasion of their homeland and the Nazis' brutal six-year occupa-

"The treaty parties confirm that they will abstain from the threat or use of force directed against the territorial integrity or political independence of the other treaty party," states the non-aggression clause of the pact.

the rights of about 200,000 ethnic

Germans living in a huge section of Poland that was forfeited by Poland is getting in return is that gain entry into the European Roh asks cabinet to prepare for unification of two Koreas

Roh Tae-Woo

hold talks with 79-year-old North

Korean President Kim II Sung

who was installed in power by the ties with the Soviet Union last year and exchanged trade offices with China this year. Both have been close allies of Pyongyang.

Korea, a restive Japanese colony from 1910 until 1945, was divided at the end of World War

II. More than 10 million Koreans have been separated from their families by the division and the Reunification of their country is an emotional issue for Koreans

although some Seoul officials privately express reservations about the practical and economic problems of joining two countries which have evolved very different social systems in the past four 1950-58 Korean war.

Seoul established diplomatic

Soviet Union in 1948.

One of the major promises

Germany after World War II.

The document also guarantees townships before negotiations

About 4,000 blacks have been killed in violence during the last year and a half. The ANC has repeatedly claimed de Klerk has not done enough to end the violence, mainly between supporters of the ANC and the Zulu-based Inkatha Freedom Party.

During last week's debate in parliament, Conservative Party member Willem Botha said the population registration act was one of the country's best laws. and was repealed because the ruling National Party "has become ashamed to be white,"

But parliament member Jac Rabie told the mixed-race chamber of parliament that nearly everyone in his family was classified differently. Rabie himself was once classified Asian, but is now officially of mixed-race.

The new law, he said, "means my white uncles and I are now the South Africa's parliament has separate chambers for whites, Asians and people of mixed-race. The 30-million black majority is

Polish Foreign Minister

Krzysztof Skubiszewski was quoted as saying the document is crucial not just for Poland and Germany, but also for the integration of wealthy Western Europe and the struggling east.

day quoted him as saying that German-Polish cooperation "can and should foster the growing-together of both parts of Europe

Under enormous pressure from Germans who had been forced from land forfeited by Germany to Poland after the war, Kohl

early last year refused Warsaw's demand to state that united Ger-

In recent years, South Korea's successful efforts to establish relations with its former communist enemies have isolated North

51 arrested

one people have been arrested and 415 others are under investigation for vote-buying, bribery and other illegal activities in the run-up to local elections in South

Korea this week, officials said

As the number of arrests relating to Thursday's poll increased,

Roh ordered a strict crackdown down on corrupt activities, regardless of (whether they were committed by) ruling or opposition camps," Roh was quoted as telling his cabinet ministers

The 130,000 strong national

"Ferret out and strictly clamp on campaign irregularities.

Monday.

Monday.

in March.

1988.

and nine provinces.

In another development, fifty into a unified whole."

Germany will help it eventually many would never seek to regain

The newspaper Die Welt Mon-

Punjab cities close down to protest against mass killings

LUDHIANA, India (R) — Cities in the north Indian state of Punjab largely stopped work Monday in protest against the massacre of 76 train passengers by Sikh separatists, officials said. They said shops and businesses in major cities mostly closed following Saturday night's slaughter of mainly Hindu passengers aboard two trains near the industrial city of Ludhiana. Senior official S.S. Channy said an intensive search for the killers was continuing.

The killings were part of a Sikh militant effort to stop state and national elections June 22.

The militants, whose decade old campaign for an independent Sikh homeland has cost the lives of thousands, say the elections would give a facade of legitimacy to Indian rule of the rich . northern agricultural state.

They have killed about 20 candidates for a 117-state assembly to take back power exercised directly from New Delhi for more

The militants have also called a state-wide curfew for June 21 ## and 22 and told people anyone who tries to vote risks being shot. U.S. armada rescues Americans Baker from threatened Philippine base arrives in

BERLIN (AP) - U.S. Secretary of State James Baker arrived in Germany Monday for discussions led at least 164 people in a series with European leaders on how to of destructive blasts. meet the political and economic needs of a continent emerging from the cold war. Baker's itinerary was expanded o add stops in Yugoslavia and Albania following his attendance at a meeting of foreign ministers from the 34-nation Conference on Security and Cooperation in grope (CSCE). The organisation includes European countries,

Germany

Canada and the United States. While in Germany. Baker is scheduled to meet with Soviet Foreign Minister Alexander Bessmertnykh to try to resolve differences over a treaty slashing both sides' long-range nuclear arsenals. Settling the remaining differences would open the way to a summit between U.S. President George Bush and Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev. State Department officials said Baker would go to Yugoslavia Thursday, where he was expected to meet with Yugoslav Foreign Minister Budimir Loncar. From Belgrade he will travel Friday to Albania for a brief stop to meet with Premier Ylli Bufi and leaders of the country's democratic police have been put on full alert opposition. to prevent corruption in the elec-The United States has pressed tions for councils in six large cities Yugoslavia to remain unified. But the Western-oriented states The June 20 poll is the second of Slovenia and Croatia have round of local polls. Ward and vowed to secede unless hard-line town council elections were held Marxists in other republics agree to form a looser federation.

Elected local government was Because of its self-imposed abolished by a military governisolation and severe human rights ment in 1961. Revival of local abuses, Albania is the only Euroautonomy has been a main pean nation that is not a member opposition demand and was a of CSCE. But it has asked to join Roh campaign promise. the organisation and the United Some political analysts view States is willing to support the Thursday's election as a test of move if the government conpopular support for Roh's govtinues democratic reforms, a U.S. ernment which took office in official said.

MANILA (R) — A U.S. naval where many storage buildings armada Monday plucked Amer-collapsed. Most Filipinos died ican families from a military base in the Philippines threatened by an erupting volcano that has kil-

A U.S. naval battle group headed by the aircraft carrier Abraham Lincoln picked up 5.000 dependants of American servicemen Monday from Subic Bay Naval Base, U.S. spokesmen said a total of 20,000 people would be evacuated.

As American families pulled out, about a quarter of a Filipinos crowded into churches. schools and gymnasiums, or took refuge with relatives after fleeing by bus or on foot from the erupting volcano which killed at least 164 people in a weekend of terror, relief officials said.

Those killed included a nine year-old American girl in Subic. when buildings buckled, weighed down by continuous ashfalls and rocked by earthquakes sparked by the volcano.

Others were killed when villages were swamped by mudslides and floods triggered by a tropical

Relief and government officials said 48 died in Pampanga province, 45 in Zambales province. 16 in Tarlac province, five in the Bataan peninsula, 34 in Glongapo town and 16 in the town of

More were feared buried in towns and villages swamped by cascading mud unleashed when Mount Pinatudo erupted in a deadly series of explosions, causing buildings to collapse under the weight of accumulated ash

Government officials estimated damage to crops and property at almost $200 million. "I went through the Japanese occupation, but the war was never anything like this," said 75 year-old Corazon Monteardo, as one arrived at an evacuation camp in San Fernando on the perimeter of a 40 kilometre danger zone" around the voicano.

President Corazon Aquino visited refugees at a sports centre in Manila and appealed for donations of food and clothing.

throughout the night, but by Monday Pinatudo appeared to have quietened down and scientists said the worst may be over.

Chief Philippine volcanologist Ravumundo Punongbayan said the last major eruption was Sunday morning and the level of explosions could weaken.

Historic Northern Ireland talks start after last-minute hitch and sand.

BELFAST (R) — Historic peace talks on Northern Ireland finally started Monday after a lastminute hitch over who the chairman would be.

British officials confirmed that former Australian Governor-General Sir Ninian Stephen would chair talks involving Northern Ireland political parties and the Dublin government. Fiery Protestant preacher politician Ian Paisley gave his final approval for Stephen's appointment after leaving the talks venue for an hour to check on the diplomat-judge's background with his Unionist Party officials. The talks were overshadowed by the shooting hours earlier of a part time soldier in the Northern Ireland-based Ulster defence regiment in a suspected Irish Republican Army (IRA) gun attack. Detectives believe the man's killing - he was shot dead on his way to work at a Belfast tyre depot — could herald another bloody round of sectarian "tit for tat" killings On Sunday, Protestant extremists from the Ulster volunteer force said they shot and wounded a Catholic because he was a leading IRA member. Sinn Fein, the political wing of the IRA battling to oust Britain from Northern Ireland, has been excluded from the talks because it refuses to renounce violence.

Britain's Northern Ireland Minister Peter Brooke is hoping to return the province to self government after 17 years of direct rule from London.

Monday's talks involved four political parties - the two Protestant unionist parties, the Moderate Social Democratic and Labour Party and the Middle of the Road Alliance Party.

The proceedings finally got under way after seven weeks of procedural wrangling that tested Brooke's patience and diplomacy to the limit.

Northern Ireland's only previous attempt at power-sharing collapsed in 1974 after just one year when a Protestant-inspired general strike brought the province to its knees.

Sir Ninian Stephen, Australian governor-general from 1982 to 1989, confirmed he has accepted the difficult diplomatic task of bridging centuries of mistrust between Protestant and Catholic.

search for mysterious beast

WATER VALLEY Alberta

(AP) — It's not that Tom Steen-

burg is fanatical about the Sasquatch, a hairy, man-like creafoot of the rockies.

China calls Pope's naming of Chinese cardinal unacceptable

BELIING (AP) — China accused Pope John Paul II Monday of meddling in its internal affairs by appointing a Chinese priest as a

The Pope disclosed late last month that he had secretly named then Bishop Ignatius Gong Pinmei a cardinal 12 years ago, while the former prelate of Shanghai was still in prison.

Cardinal Gong, also spelled Kung, spent 30 years in prison for refusing to denounce the Catholic Church in Rome. He now lives in a home for retired priests in Stamford, Connecticut.

The foreign ministry colled the appointment "an interf .ence in China's internal affai and un-

"To do this is only to produce new obstacles in the improvement of relations between China and the Vatican," an unnamed spokesman was quoted as saying on the nationally televised even-

China severed relations with the Vatican in 1957, claiming it had interfered in China's internal affairs. It does not recognise the Pope's authority .

In recent years, China has said will not restore relations until the Vatican severs ties with Beirival government in Taiwan.

The Beijing government has set up its own patriotic Catholic Church, which consecrates its own bishops.

By John Follain

FLORENCE, Italy - The doctor who discovered AIDS urged the United States Monday to launch an offensive against the killer disease as big as its Gulf war mission.

Reuter

In an interview to mark the 10th anniversary of his first report on AIDS, Dr. Michael Gottlieb said President George Bush was doing too little to slow the

"In the first 30 days of the Gulf war (to oust Iraq from Kuwait), 14 American soldiers died. On the home front, 2,500 Americans died of AIDS," said Gottlieb, in Florence for the seventh International AIDS Conference.

"We need a war plan against the HTV virus (which causes AIDS) as big and comprehensive as that which the U.S. deployed in the Gulf war," he said.

"Otherwise we will never win." He urged Bush to put AIDS at the top of the domestic agenda and appoint a White House adviser to deal exclusively with it.

Gottlieb, an American, was the first to report on June 5, 1981, a new disease which broke down the body's immune system. The HTV virus itself was identified a

He described five Los Angeles homosexual men who had developed a rare form of pneumonia which had already killed two

More than 500,000 Americans will develop AIDS in the next decade, according to official U.S. estimates.

AIDS discoverer calls for 'Gulf war' against disease

By the year 2000, 10 million adults worldwide will have developed the disease. Forty million adults and children will be infected with the virus, the World Health Organisation (WHO) be-

The U.S. epidemic could have been prevented. It's the government's fault if somebody gets the virus because they weren't informed enough about infection through sex or drugs," said Got-

He said the anti-AIDS plan should highlight intravenous drug users as a high risk group spreading HIV among both men and women, through dirty needles and sexual intercourse.

The HIV virus is spread through the bloodstream and can be caught through sexual contact and sharing contaminated hypodermic needles.

AIDS (acquired immune deficieny syndrome) is so hard to treat because it destroys the body's immune system rather than killing victims directly. Gottlieb said the programme should include easy access to drugs for some users and to clean needles. "That sounds radical but that's how the administration's condom campaign was described in the mid-1980s," he said. Homosexual men have so far epidemic. But it is now spreading most rapidly there among intravenous drug users.

The pattern is similar in much had to bear the brunt of the U.S.

of the industrialised world. In developing nations, virtually all cases can be traced to heterosexual sex and infection rates are soaring more rapidly.

Gottlieb backed activists' demands that compounds recently identified as inhibiting the HIV virus from reproducing itself should be made available to sufferers immediately.

Two new drugs are expected to be approved by the U.S. Food and Drugs Administration this year. They are similar to the only approved treatment, AZT, which prolongs life but is toxic.

Prostitutes use radio station to combat AIDS RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP - Prostitutes have started at station that broadcasts new music, interviews and advice at out safe sex from Vila Mintosa Rio's oldest red-light district Euridice Coelho Reis, pression of the Rio Association of Prositintes, said the group decided radio would be the best say in reach members with mes out AIDS, because so many of the women are disterant Ms.

Reis, who is 44 and formerly worked in Vila Mimosa, said the station also was effective in reaching chents. Many instruct customers are besitant about taking leaflets home, she said, because they don't want their wives "to discover where they spend their free time." Prostitution is believed to be a major cause of AIDS spreading beyond the high-risk groups of intravenous done users and male homosexuals to women and heterosexual men. Two Vila Mimosa prostitutes died of AIDS in April, the month the radio station began broad-

Two yachtsmen safe after ordeal

LONDON (AP) — Two British yachtsmen who spent six days drifting in a life raft without food after their boat sank during a long-distance race were rescued by a warship, the British coast guard said Sunday. Geoff Hales and Andrew Webster were picked by the Portuguese warship Vasco De Gama 600 miles (965 kilometres) from the Azores, said a spokesman at the coast guard station in Falmouth, on England's southwest coast. They were due to arrive in Lisbon Tuesday. Hales and Webster took to their life raft when their yacht, the 30-foot (nine-metre) Minitech, capsized and sank on the outward leg of the Falmouthto-Azores race, which began June

Drug squad hits wrong house

KANSAS CITY, Missouri (AP) - A drug squad overturned furniture, destroyed appliances and smashed a toilet to bits during a raid on the wrong house, police said. "I thought somebody was shooting at us when all that glass came flying in," said Lloyd Miner, who was watching television with his girlfriend when police came crashing. Police said the officers ignored a routine safeguard and hit the wrong address. Damage to the house went beyond what is expected in a search for drugs, police said. Doors were ripped off cabinets, televisions overturned and an airconditioning unit torn out. No drugs or illegal items were found. Miner, a 33-year-old construction worker, said officers struck him with blunt objects, possibly flash-lights, to make him lie on the floor. He was taken to jail and held for about five hours. Obscured behind bushes is the adjacent house that officers had a warrant to enter. Neighbours said strangers walked in and out of that house as the raid proceeded. Miner, his girlfriend, and their landlord are considering suing.

Man devotes life to

ture Americans call Bigfoot. He's merely obsessed. How else to describe a hobby that consumes all his spare time and, alas, as wife Pam Ruefully acknowledges, every bit of spare money? "It's been an obsession since I was a kid," said Steenburg, a 30-yearold hospital mainatenance employee. "My parents hoped I'd grow out of it." It isn't easy being Alberta's unofficial Hunter of the Sasquatch, which hundreds of people claim to have seen in the Pacific Northwest. Secientists generally reject the idea of such an animal and the lunatic fringe makes it hard for a serious researcher to be taken seriously. Steenburg said he upends as much time and efforts debunking false sightings and hoaxes as he does in search of the clusive beast. "I don't believe in it 100 per cent because I've never seen one," he said. "You have to be skeptical to do research." On the other hand, Steenburg noted, he has never seen a wolverine during years of wandering the magnificent Western Canadian wilderness in the

